Introduction

HIS history of the Cathedral of Saint John the Divine is published because of the many requests that have been made for some such statement. We have been able to secure the most valuable knowledge of a number of friends of the Cathedral who have known it from its inception to the present day. The dreams of the past are beginning now to be realized, and with the practical completion of the Choir, Crossing and the Seven Chapels of Tongues, we are able to prove to all men the place and value of the Cathedral life in the city, the Diocese and throughout the country. What we have already attained has been accomplished through the service and generous gifts of many devoted servants of Christ, some of whom have entered into the rest of Paradise. We feel perfectly certain that these results, already accomplished, have justified all reasonable hopes concerning the Cathedral, and we believe the story of this progress, as told in the following pages, will win the grateful recognition of the people of New York and of the whole country.

It is evident that we are at the very beginning of what we believe to be a great future for this Cathedral. We are trying to make it the centre of a far-reaching spiritual influence, and at the same time to go forward toward the completion of the building itself.

At the particular moment of the publishing of this history, we are preparing tentative plans for the building of the Nave, and we hope that this book will help in that undertaking.

The Cathedral in Embryo

BY GEORGE MACCULLOCH MILLER

THE earliest suggestion of the building of a Protestant Episcopal Cathedral in the Diocese of New York is generally supposed to have been made by Bishop Horatio Potter in his address to the Convention, September 25th, 1872, but in the diary of Mr. Philip Hone, a distinguished citizen and at one time Mayor of the City, there occurs, under date of Friday, November 14th, 1828, the following:

"Dined with Mr. D. S. Jones. On my return home, the Bishop, who had made an appointment with me at Mr. Jones's, called at my house and proposed in confidence the plan of a Cathedral to be erected in Washington Square. The idea of a magnificent diocesan church is a very imposing one, and strikes my mind favorably, and it is certain that the location suggested by the Bishop is the best in the City, and can be obtained at a moderate price. Independently of the advantage which our church would derive from such an establishment, the erection of such an edifice would improve the property in its vicinity and render the square the most desirable residence in the City. But where is the money, where the public spirit, where the liberality, to carry such a noble plan into execution? Above all, who will take a lead in it? I note in this place the conference above mentioned as it is possible that this glorious project may, one of these days, be carried into effect, and I believe this is the first time it has ever been hinted."

This proposal of Bishop Hobart to Mr. Hone may be considered the germ of the Cathedral movement, but it lay unfruitful, not developing into a form to attract attention until forty-four years afterward.

It is interesting to note, however, that Bishop Hobart, with prophetic vision, saw and noted the propriety and need of a Cathedral, the advantage there would be to the Diocese in its establishment, and the place where it should be located.

There is a curious significance also in the fact that in this project there were united the Bishop and the Mayor, a combination which the trustees of the Cathedral, from the outset, have never failed to cultivate; for it is recognized that a Cathedral in its ministration and influence should be for the people at large, eliciting civic interest in it, and in its buildings and functions. There is also singular significance in the fact that the location for the site suggested by Bishop Hobart upon the northernmost limit of the City's growth at that time is curiously repeated in the site finally chosen, bearing about the same relation to the growth and development of the City in 1887 as Washington Square did in 1828.

That nothing was done toward providing the Diocese with a Cathedral between 1828 and 1872 is accounted for by the antagonism of the Church in America during the early half of the last century toward Cathedrals, their customs and equipment. When the Oxford Movement began, the great body of Churchmen here were uninfluenced by it, if not hostile to it, and after this became less pronounced, and the Oxford ideas had affected many of the clergy and laity, there resulted the "High Church Party" and the "Low Church Party," each apt to question the wisdom of the other.

Under these conditions, though confessedly a High Churchman, and prone to what this represented, Bishop Horatio Potter was unfavorably disposed toward recommending that the Diocese undertake the building of a Cathedral.

The attitude of Bishop Potter toward the two parties in the Church and his forbearance in pressing the matter of the Cathedral demands acknowledgment as a tribute to his wisdom, self-restraint and good judgment in so administering his Bishopric that by the end of his life much of the antagonism had subsided, and most of the members of the two parties had merged into the strong conservative body of Churchmen that represented the Church of this Diocese at the time of his death.

With the subsidence of partisan conflict in the Diocese the building of a Cathedral was frequently favorably discussed by prominent clergymen and laymen, on behalf of whom Mr. Stephen P. Nash wrote the Bishop asking that he bring the matter to the attention of the Convention of 1872; and impelled, doubtless by this as well as by his own conviction that the time had arrived when the establishment of the Cathedral should be inaugurated, Bishop Potter's address to the Convention contained the following:

"I conclude this protracted communication with a brief reference to a subject which has long occupied my mind, as it has more or less engaged the thoughts of very many of the leading minds of this Diocese. The question has often presented itself, Is there in the system of the Church in this country any legitimate place for a Cathedral? Can it be anything more than nominal among us? Can it have any such important uses as will justify us in making so large an outlay as would be required to achieve anything worthy of the Diocese and of this great Metropolis of the American continent?

"And if these questions can be clearly answered in the affirmative, then the further question claims consideration: Has the time arrived for so very serious an undertaking?

"My dear brethren, I shall here only say, that in my deliberate judgment, all these questions, even the last, can be answered strongly in the affirmative. The Church in this Diocese needs a Cathedral Church, and ought before long to have one. My dear brethren, we cannot, as a true branch of the one Holy Catholic Church, cut ourselves off from the traditions of all the Christian ages. In all times and countries the Bishop has had his seat, his Cathedra, and the Diocese has had its centre of unity and authority. And for my own part, I will venture in the very outset to say, that unless a Cathedral in this Diocese can be made a means of promoting unity and sympathy among brethren of all tones of thought—unless, while it presents an edifice and a worship which for majesty, for reverence, for genuine power of religious expression, shall be fitted to represent and set forth the majesty of our Holy Religion, as well as the dignity of our branch of the Church, it shall also enable the Bishop to bring together the ablest and most devoted men on all sides, that their maturest thoughts and their best powers of expression may be heard from a commanding and authoritative position, and that they may be for counsel to the Bishop in many practical matters—(technical matters being remitted as at present to the Standing Committee)—I say, unless a Cathedral in this Diocese can be so ordered as to be a centre of unity and sympathy and power among us, I, for my part, have no ambition to see its foundations laid during my day.

"I believe that a Cathedral might be made a great Central Power for teaching the Truth of God, vindicating its supernatural principles and facts, its evidence and authority in the most forcible way—thus stimulating the talent of our Clergy by affording the noblest opportunities for its exercise. If properly endowed it might be made the means of encouraging learned men, and of rewarding and affording a dignified retreat to those who had done and were still capable of doing good service as scholars, but were no longer capable of severe physical effort. Under its great shadow would be found a School for Church Music, which would help to relieve us from some of the abominations which we occasionally meet with in our worship, and out of which school might frequently be drawn meritorious youths fitted to be educated for the work of the Sacred Ministry. Nay, under its patronage there might possibly be formed a school for the training of young men of the Diocese, if necessary, for Holy Orders; for I hold that under any and all circumstances, for reasons which I need not now unfold, the theological school for this Diocese should be in this City: if not in one way, then in another. Finally, my brethren, who can doubt that a fitting Cathedral establishment in this City would become a centre of earnest self-denying Church work, from which streams of spiritual blessing would, on the one hand, flow with healing waters into the darkest places of this great City; while, on the other hand, they would spread their influence through the strangers that come here over every part of this vast country. I call for no action from this body, I leave the subject for your calm, devout consideration, and the consideration of all the earnest, noble-hearted Laity of this Diocese. May God the Holy Ghost breathe upon us all, filling our hearts with love and peace here, and preparing us for eternal joy amid the felicities of the Redeemed in Heaven!"

With unanimous response to the recommendation of the Bishop, the Convention adopted the following resolution:

"Resolved, That a Committee of Fifteen be appointed to take measures for the establishment in the City of New York of a Cathedral of the Diocese, that such Committee have power to frame and apply for a Charter of Incorporation, and receive subscriptions toward the purchase of a site, and the erection of the Cathedral Church and other buildings in connection with the same."

BY WHICH PROCEEDINGS THE BUILDING OF A CATHEDRAL WAS FORMALLY INITIATED, AND THUS, AFTER FORTY-FOUR YEARS' INCUBATION, BISHOP HOBART'S CONCEPTION OF A CATHEDRAL FOR THIS DIOCESE CAME INTO BEING.

The Charter

It does not appear that the Committee of Fifteen called for by this resolution was appointed by the Convention, but on December 30th, 1872, the following letter was issued by the Bishop:

"38 East 22nd Street,
December 30th, 1872.

DEAR SIR:

Under the resolution of the last Diocesan Convention authorizing the appointment of a Committee of Fifteen to take measures for the establishment in the City of New York of a Cathedral of the Diocese I have appointed the following gentlemen to constitute the Committee:

With the Bishop:

The Rev. Morgan Dix, D.D.	William H. Guion, Esq.
The Rev. Henry C. Potter, D.D.	William Butler Duncan, Esq.
The Rev. John Cotton Smith, D.D.	S. B. Ruggles, Esq.
The Rev. George H. Houghton, D.D.	William Scott, Esq.
The Rev. Philander K. Cady, D.D.	George M. Miller, Esq.
Hon. Hamilton Fish	Howard Potter, Esq.
John J. Cisco, Esq.	William T. Blodgett, Esq.
	Stephen P. Nash, Esq.

You are requested to attend a meeting of the Committee for organization and to consider a proposed Charter on Friday, the third day of January, 1873, at my residence, 38 East Twenty-second Street, at 8 o'clock, P.M.

Very faithfully yours,
(Signed) HORATIO POTTER, Bishop of New York."

And in response to this call the following members of the Committee, to wit:

met as requested. The Bishop presided, and, on motion, Mr. Stephen P. Nash was appointed Secretary "pro tem."

Mr. Nash presented the draft of a proposed Act for the incorporation of a Cathedral Body and after debating and amending the same it was

"Resolved, That Dr. Smith, Dr. Dix and Mr. Nash, together with the Bishop, be a Committee to procure the passage of the Act, with authority to adopt a corporate name and to agree to such amendments, not essential in their character, as might be deemed necessary during the progress of the Act through the Legislature."

The Legislature being already in session, prompt and energetic action on the part of the Committee was necessary, and much credit is due to all, especially to Mr. Nash, for obtaining, before its adjournment, so liberal and comprehensive a Charter.

Opposition developed, not so much from representatives of the City, but chiefly from those representing rural districts where there was still prevalent the antagonism to the Episcopal Church developed during the Revolution because of its English parentage. There was also a not unnatural disinclination to create a rival to the proportions and beauty of the Cathedral already building on 5th Avenue. Consequently it was only by the tactful and devoted work of the Committee that their task was so soon and satisfactorily accomplished; and on May 6th, 1873, they were able to report to the Committee of Fifteen the following Charter or Act of Incorporation:

CHARTER

An Act
to incorporate the
URCH OF ST. JOHN THE DIVINE in the

CITY AND DIOCESE OF NEW YORK

Passed April 16th, 1873, three-fifths being present.
THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK, REPRESENTED IN SENATE AND ASSEMBLY, DO ENACT AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. Horatio Potter, Morgan Dix, Henry C. Potter, John Cotton Smith, George H. Houghton, Philander K. Cady, Hamilton Fish, John J. Cisco, Stephen P. Nash, William H. Guion, William Butler Duncan, Samuel B. Ruggles, William Scott, George M.

Miller, Howard Potter and William T. Blodgett, and their successors, who shall be appointed or elected as hereinafter prescribed, are hereby created a body politic and corporate, under the name and style of the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine, in the City and Diocese of New York, and by that name shall have perpetual succession, and be capable of suing and being sued, and of acquiring, taking and holding in trust or otherwise, by purchase, gift, grant, devise or bequest (subject, however, to all the provisions of law relating to devises or bequests by last will and testament), all and any estate or property, real or personal, necessary or proper for all or any of the objects or purposes of the said corporation, and to sell, convey or otherwise dispose of the same; provided, however, that the net yearly income of the said estate thus acquired shall not exceed the sum of two hundred thousand dollars; and the said corporation shall have all the powers, and be subject to the provisions, so far as they may be applicable and not inconsistent with this act, of Title three, Chapter eighteen of the first part of the Revised Statutes.

Section 2. The object and purpose of the said corporation shall be the establishment, erection, maintenance and management of a Cathedral Church and its appurtenances in the City of New York, in accordance with the doctrine, discipline and worship of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America, together with such incidental Cathedral foundations, schools, faculties and other religious or charitable works as may be properly connected therewith, in and for the said Diocese.

Section 3. The persons named in the first section of this act shall be and are hereby constituted the first trustees of the said corporation, and they shall hold office and have power to fill vacancies in their own number until their successors shall be appointed or elected, under the constitution to be adopted, as herein-after prescribed; provided, however, that the Bishop of the said Protestant Episcopal Church of the Diocese, in which the City of New York shall be situated, exercising jurisdiction as such, for the time being, shall always be ex-officio, a trustee and the official head and the presiding officer of the said corporation.

Section 4. The said corporation shall have power to adopt a constitution, prescribing the number of trustees, other than the said Bishop, of whom at least five shall be laymen, and the mode of appointing or electing the said trustees; and to amend such constitution in the mode it shall prescribe for its amendment; and the said corporation shall also have power to enact statutes or by-laws not inconsistent with such constitution, for the government, regulation and management of the said corporation, its officers, business, property and affairs, and the same from time to time to amend, repeal or modify; provided, however, that such constitution, statutes and by-laws shall not be inconsistent with this act, or with any law of this State.

Section 5. The seats for the worshippers in said Cathedral Church shall always be free.

Section 6. This act shall take effect immediately.

Though there were still some to say, "But where is the money, where the public spirit, where the liberality to carry such a noble plan into execution?" much enthusiasm and encouragement among Church people followed the obtaining of the Charter, while articles in the newspapers and communications from members of other denominations commented upon and approved the project. Of such communications one from a distinguished Presbyterian citizen to Bishop Henry C. Potter, at a later date, is quoted as of this stage of the history, because it embodies in a letter what the writer personally expressed at the time referred to, and so fully and impressively shows the encouragement given from outside the Episcopal Church to what was being undertaken. This gentleman writes as follows:

"I am very happy to learn that active steps are now being taken leading to the erection of a Cathedral in this city.

"For many years I have been convinced that a Cathedral in this great city of New York would be of incalculable service to the cause of Religion, not only in the city, but throughout the whole nation.

"Recognizing, as I trust I do, the pressing needs of the Great West to have planted into new scenes and fields the institutes of Religion, and also the needs of our own city, into which is pouring so vast a tide of immigration, still we must not forget that we are building for the future and for the centuries and the generations to follow us.

"An imposing Cathedral in this commercial and financial centre where material things necessarily hold such sway, will be a reason for firm faith in the reality and value of things unseen, and be a lasting memorial of a true faith in Christ.

"Its beneficent influence on the Church of Christ of all names throughout the whole of this great nation, which will contain before the Cathedral can be completed, a population of over one hundred million, no one can fully estimate, but I feel thoroughly convinced that no other equal expenditure would have such lasting benefits for the whole Church of Christ and on the nation at large.

"While I fully recognize that the circumstances of the case require that such a Cathedral be Episcopal, my interest in the work arises from my confident belief that this blessing will extend to the Church of Christ of every name, and be a prevalent power for good to the nation throughout its entire history."

The writer of this letter manifested the faith and sincerity with which he had written by a gift during his lifetime and another by his will.

Another prominent citizen, not an Episcopalian, wrote to the Trustees expressing his "great interest in the work and his desire to contribute to an undertaking so beneficial and honorable to his native city."

By the Charter or Act of Incorporation the Bishop of the Diocese is "ex-officio a Trustee, the official head and presiding officer of the Corporation," and the persons named in the Act were "constituted the first Trustees of the said Corporation."

At the first meeting of the Trustees, held on May 6th, 1873, the Charter was unanimously accepted and adopted, and on motion of Mr. Nash, Mr. Miller was elected Secretary of the Board.

On motion of Mr. Fish, it was resolved that the site for the Cathedral or any building erected thereon shall at no time be encumbered by a mortgage or any permanent debt.

On motion by Judge Ruggles, it was resolved that a Committee of three be appointed by the Bishop to inquire as to land available for the purpose of the Corporation.

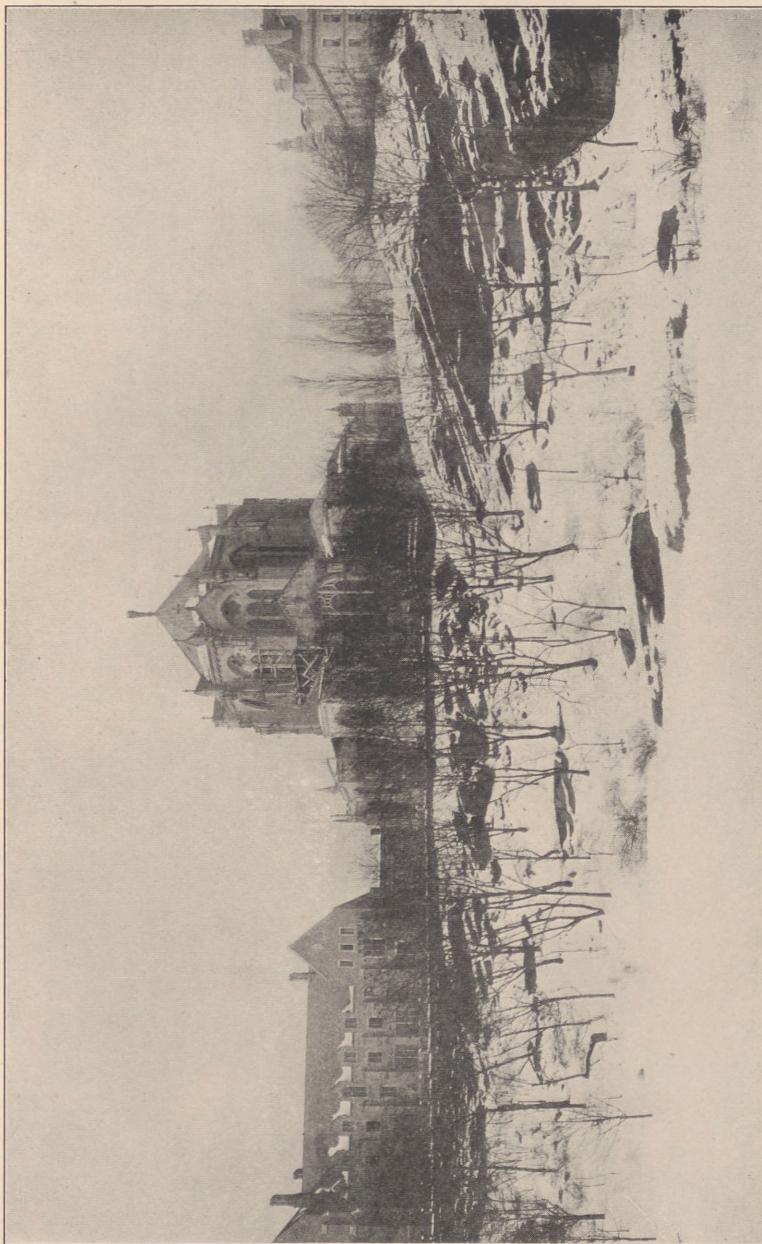

The appointment of this Committee was predicated on three subscriptions of $100,000 each, but only one of these being received the purchase of a site at that time was abandoned. There was consideration, however, of the plot bounded by 7th Avenue, 57th Street, 6th Avenue and 59th Street, north of which the Committee was forbidden to look.

The resolution of Mr. Fish forbidding a mortgage remains in force, and it is to be hoped will so continue.

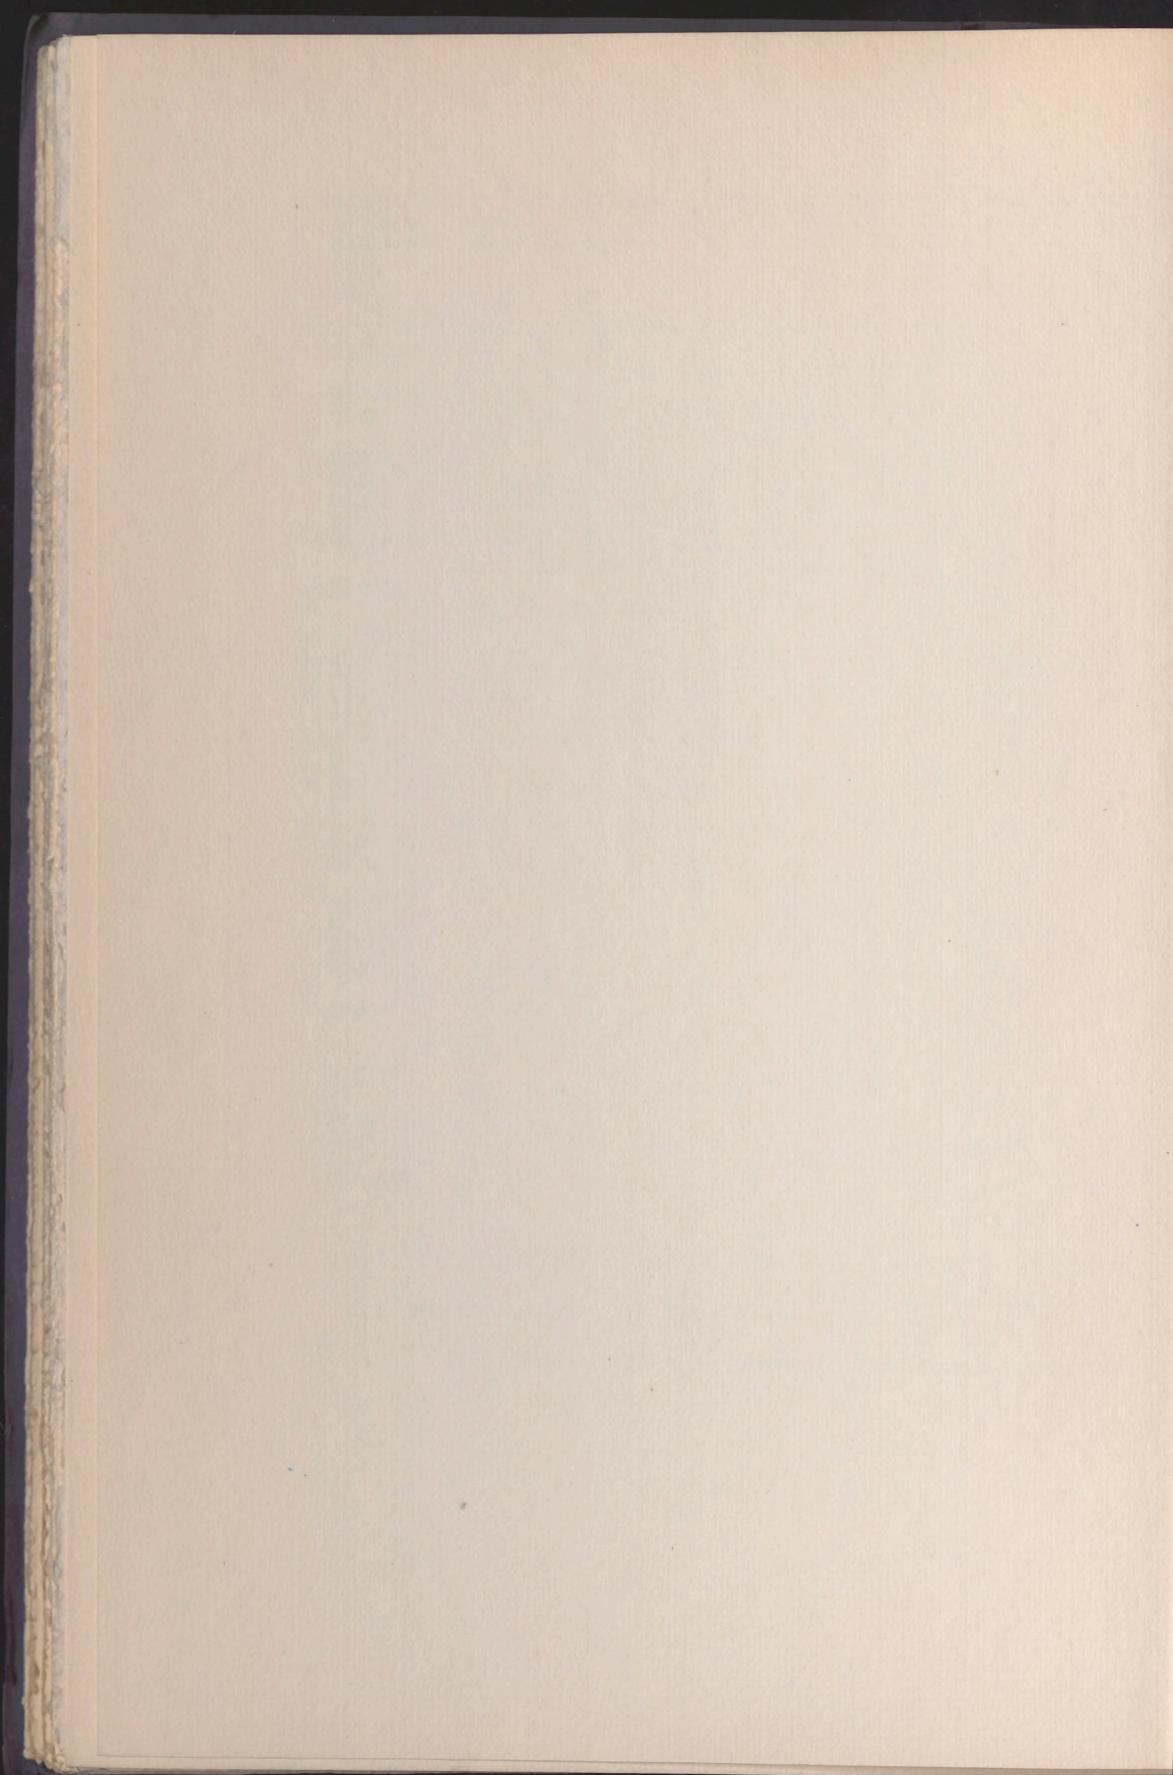

The next meeting was on March 3rd, 1874, when a Committee on Canonical Legislation was appointed to define the relation between the Cathedral and the parochial organizations of this city.

From March 3rd, 1874, there was no meeting at which there was a quorum until April 3rd, 1886, this interregnum of interest and activity being, to some extent, occasioned by reluctance to seek from the Diocese money for the Cathedral while existing institutions of the Church, necessary to be sustained, were in need of aid, hard in this period to be obtained because of the financial difficulties resulting from the panic of 1873.

In the spring of 1886, resignations and deaths of some of the Trustees, and absence in Europe of others, left but nine in this country available for a meeting, and no number having been established for a quorum, there was necessary to a valid meeting a majority of the whole Board (nine Trustees besides the Bishop), and in order to avoid leaving the Trustees incapable of corporate action, in the event of further resignations or deaths, a meeting was held April 3rd, 1886, when, because the Bishop was too ill to receive them otherwise, the Trustees assembled at his bedside. The Bishop from his bed said the customary prayer, presided with his habitual dignity, and at the close pronounced a benediction.

CHOIR; CHAPELS OF TONGUES

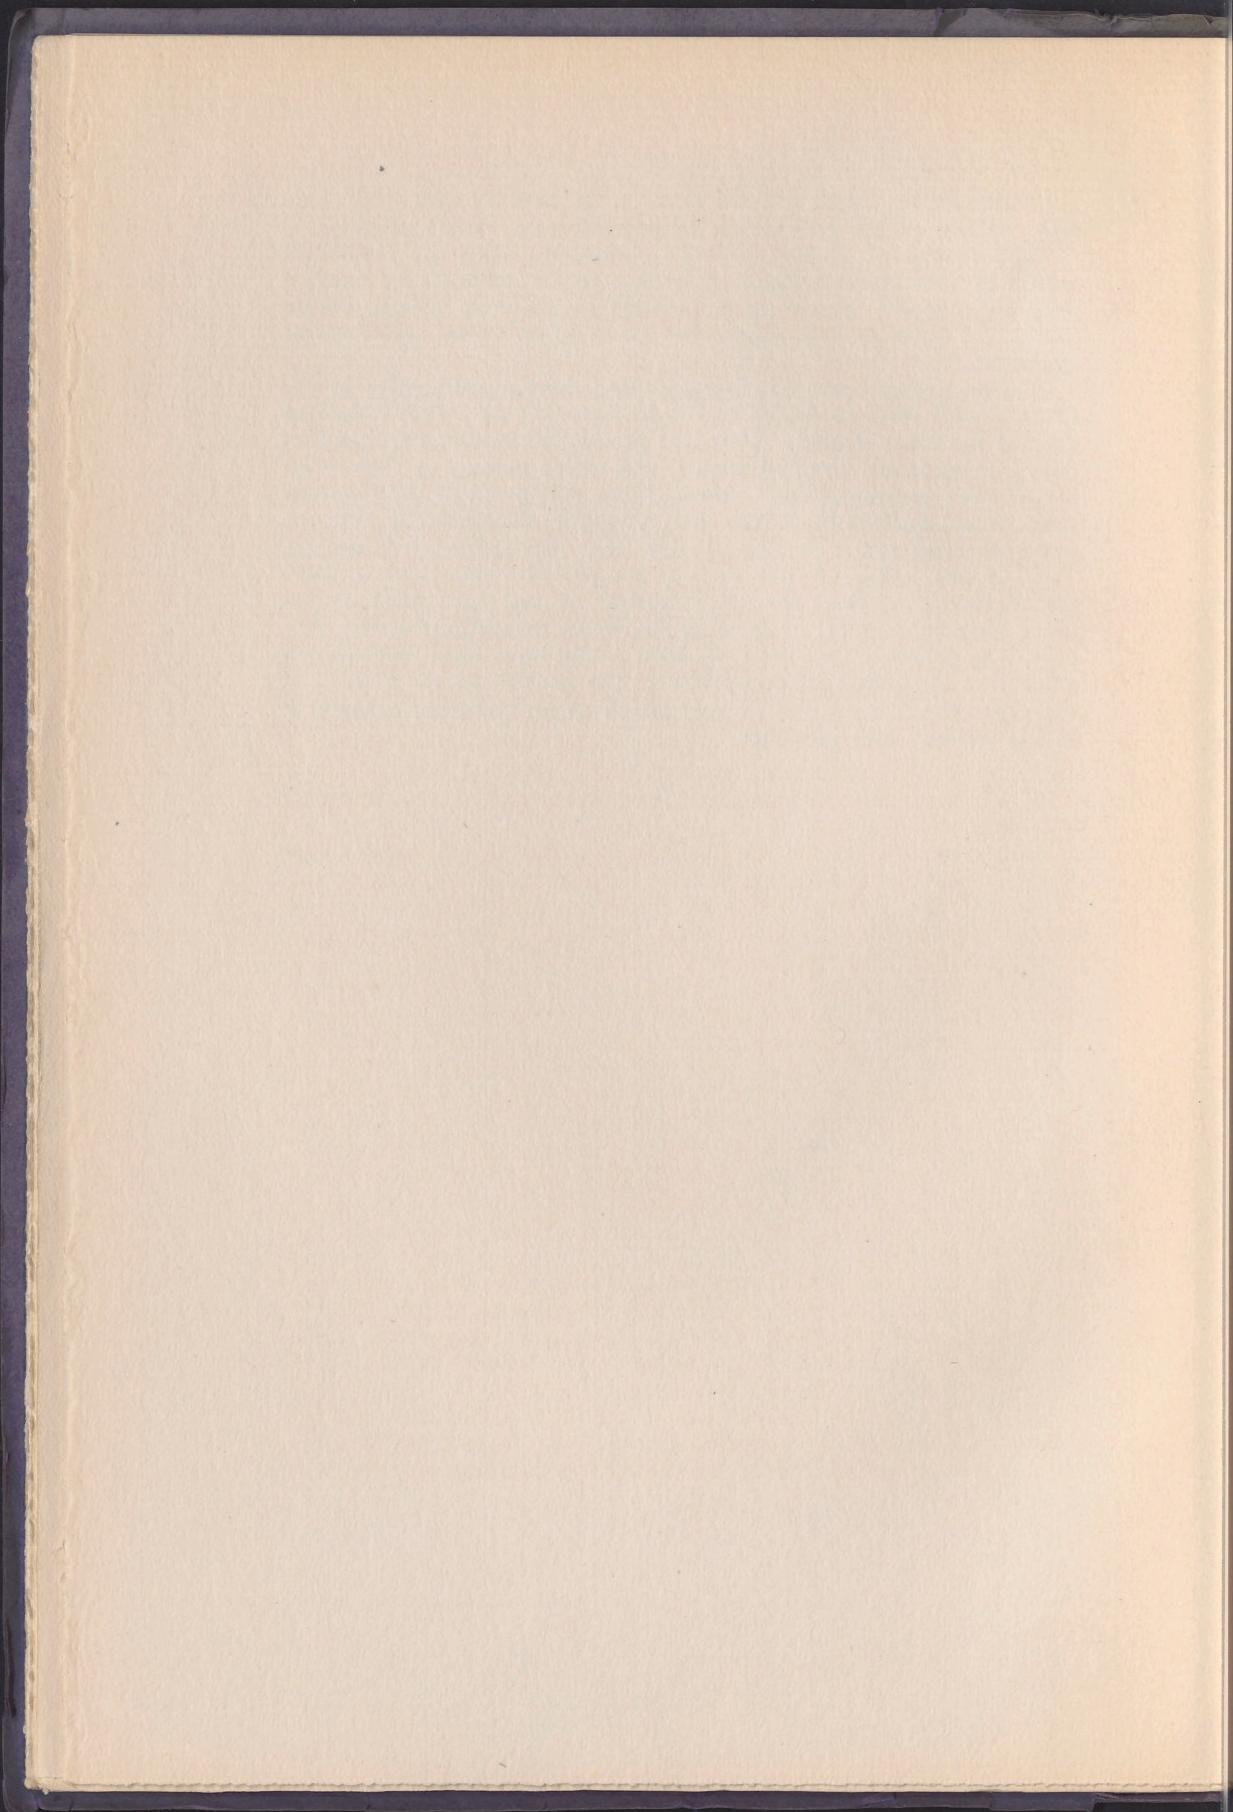

Although his death did not occur until January 2nd, 1887, this was the last meeting at which Bishop Horatio Potter presided.

The record of Bishop Potter's connection with the Cathedral would be incomplete without reference to an influence he exerted over his Diocese which made possible harmonious action, where there had been strong differences of opinion upon ecclesiastical questions.

During many years of his episcopate there were parties in the Church with lines so drawn and defended, that as a rule what one desired the other denied. This was gradually overcome by his wisdom and patience, coupled with conservative action, so that when in 1872 the project of the Cathedral was submitted to the Convention, party spirit and parties had virtually disappeared, and the great majority of the clergy and laity were disposed to act in unison.

Had not Bishop Potter during the period from 1874 to 1886 discouraged collections for the Cathedral, urging as of prior importance financial support of existing charitable institutions of the Diocese, it is probable that the Cathedral would have been placed upon a location altogether inappropriate to the growth of the city. Let therefore the present site be recognized as an enduring monument to his wisdom and influence.

Progress of the Cathedral's Development

BY THE REV. GEORGE F. NELSON, D.D.

The grant of the Charter was a cheering token of progress, but also a reminder of the large task to be accomplished before the Cathedral idea could even begin to assume a visible form on solid ground.

In the year 1886 Bishop Henry C. Potter, being in full charge of the Diocese, although still Assistant Bishop, inaugurated an active movement with a view to raising funds, selecting a site and beginning building operations. At a meeting of the Trustees on November 15th of that year, he recommended the appointment of a Committee on Site and also the employment of a financial agent for one year to further the effort to obtain subscriptions. These suggestions were carried into effect. The Rev. Dr. R. J. Nevin, Rector of St. Paul's Church, Rome, having leave of absence for the purpose, was chosen to represent the Cathedral, and within a year subscriptions were received which warranted the selection and purchase of a site.

Before final action on the question of a site was taken, no little diversity of ventures of opinion had developed at meetings of the Board. One Trustee suggested Fifth Avenue, another, Grand Street, still another, a promontory on East River between 70th Street and 72nd Street, known as "Baker's Farm." However, at a meeting held on May 6th, 1887, a further consideration of the subject found the Board of one mind, and steps were taken which resulted in acquiring the title to the premises occupied by the Leake and Watts Orphan Asylum, at a cost of $850,000, the plot being 120 feet above sea-level and extending from 110th to 113th Streets, and from Morningside Avenue to Amsterdam Avenue. At that time there were 177 trees on the ground, comprising twenty-six varieties. Later, this block, including the adjoining one occupied by Saint Luke's Hospital, was designated by the Board of Aldermen as the Cathedral Heights, and 110th Street was named the Cathedral Parkway.

In the foregoing and interesting narrative, Mr. Miller modestly omits to mention the fact that he was the first to suggest the attractive site that was finally chosen. One day while crossing 111th Street on Fifth Avenue, it so happened that he looked westward. A single glance was enough to impress him with the thought that the right place for the Cathedral was over there on the high wooded ground just beyond Morningside Park. Very soon afterward, in company with Bishop Potter, he visited this locality, and this was the first step taken toward favorable action by the Committee on Site and later by the Board of Trustees. Meantime, Bishop Potter himself not only sent out appeals for funds, but for some months made an earnest and diligent campaign by going in person with a subscription list from house to house among church people in Manhattan. He also published several articles on the importance of the proposed enterprise.

In 1889 sixty sets of competitive designs for the Cathedral were received by the Trustees from as many architects in response to circulars previously prepared and sent out by the Committee on Architecture. They were all displayed at the Diocesan House. Mr. Charles Babcock and Mr. William R. Ware having been employed as expert architects, and Mr. John Bogart as expert engineer, they examined thirteen of these designs which had been specially referred to them by the Committee on Architecture for their consideration. They reported May 8th, 1889. After eliminating all others, four sets remained for further action, and were exhibited at the National Academy of Design from March 24th to May 17th, 1891. Finally, in July, 1891, those of Messrs. Heins and LaFarge, contemplating a Cathedral of the following dimensions, were approved and accepted, viz.:

Length, east and west	520 feet
Length of Transept	288 "
Height of Western Towers	245 "
Height of Central Tower	425 "
Length of Choir	120 "
Height of Choir	118 "
Height of Dome	252 "
Area of Cathedral	99,500 sq. ft.

It is well, perhaps, to mention in this connection that some of these figures were destined to be changed. It is now expected that the finished fabric will be over 600 feet in length.

Following the beginning of building operations under the contract with the Architects, a general scheme for the interior decoration was recommended by a Special Committee appointed by the Committee on the Fabric and included the following:

"The strategic point of the building from the standpoint of decorative symbolism is the vaulting of the sanctuary. Whatever is placed here stamps the character of the building. In any Christian church the central thought is of Christ; in this church it ought to be of Christ as presented by Saint John. The proper subject for this central space would seem to be, The Incarnate Word of God (Saint John 1:1-14), and the didactic aim of this supremely important piece of decoration would be to express something of the thoughts of the Prologue to Saint John's Gospel. It is recommended that this be filled with mosaic upon a gold ground, which might contain a great circle or matrix as background for a central figure or group."

In searching for bedrock General Sooy Smith was employed to superintend excavations and work on the foundations. On account of disintegrated rock unexpectedly encountered in one place this work involved an expenditure of $250,000 and over two years of labor. However, the necessity of digging seventy-two feet to find solid rock proved to be a blessing in disguise, for it prompted Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan to subscribe $500,000, as he said to Bishop Potter, "to get us out of a hole."

On the same day Trinity Corporation came forward with timely help to the amount of $100,000.

In 1892 the Committee on Scope and Plans submitted to the Trustees the following as descriptive of the several objects of the Cathedral:

1. As a House of Prayer.
2. As a centre of Missionary activity in all portions of the Diocese.
3. As the unifying link of all non-parochial benevolent activities of the Diocese.
4. As an educational stronghold.
5. As a local cure of souls.

On Saint John's Day, December 27th, in the same year, the corner-stone was laid. A great tent, steam heated, had been provided for the occasion. The Right Rev. Dr. Doane, Bishop of Albany, preached the sermon, which included the following words:

"It is like a dream and a vision to look on to the coming day when, with the old college which recalls the days of the Revolution and the names of the patriot scholars of those times, and with the hospital that enshrines the sweet name of Muhlenberg, the Cathedral, the material seal of Bishop Potter's episcopate, shall lift its beauty from corner-stone to cross-topped spire, and with a Christian science and philosophy and Christian works of healing and of mercy, with a Christian ministry of prayer and praise and constant offering of the Christian sacrifice, shall help on even the fulfilment of the splendid prophecy of the dear Lord's Kingship when He reigned from the Tree, 'I, if I be lifted up, will draw all men unto Me.' I believe it is a stone of witness that we set here and a magnet of mighty attraction."

Before that date, however, namely, on January 1st, 1892, religious services were inaugurated in a room fitted up as a chapel at the east end of the asylum building, which had been left standing on the grounds and is now called Old Synod House. On that day, also, our faithful Verger, Mr. Charles F. Barnard, began to serve the Cathedral. Mr. Penfield was the organist of this improvised Chapel, which was maintained until and including Sunday, January 1st, 1899, and the rota of clergymen who favored the congregation with their ministrations on the invitation of the Bishop was a long one, including representatives of the Pro-Cathedral for the years between 1894 and 1899. On Sunday, January 8th, 1899, the Crypt, accommodating a congregation of 500 persons, was opened for similar use. Its furnishings included an altar, reredos, font, lectern and five stained-glass windows, only two of them, however, being set up—the Angel of the Resurrection and the Entombment—presented by Mrs. Celia Hermoine Wallace in memory of her son, all together being called the “Tiffany Chapel” when they were on exhibition at the World’s Fair at Chicago in 1893. The altar contains 150,000 squares of glass set in mosaic, the top of it and the retable being of Carrara marble, the medallions in front being of mother of pearl, and the four smaller disks containing the emblems of the four Evangelists. Sapphires, topazes and pieces of pearl are set in the central shield. The reredos is of iridescent glass mosaic; the font and the lectern are also made of little squares of glass. The twelve pillars back of the altar are of glass mosaic, those nearest it being made up of little crosses. These pillars represent the twelve Apostles supporting the arch of Christianity.

The Crypt was further enriched by the following gifts:

An altar cross from Mrs. James Herman Aldrich; a brass altar reading-desk from Mrs. Barker in memory of her husband, Fordyce Dwight Barker (1847-1893); two brass vases in memory of Elizabeth Lee, widow of Fordyce Barker (1824-1898), from her grandchildren; two ancient brass candlesticks from the Rev. William Walsh; a brass lectern in memory of Samuel D. Babcock (1822-1902), from his children; an organ from the Rev. Dr. F. Landon Humphreys, who also presented the processional cross; choir stalls from his father, Dr. Frederick Humphreys.

The Crypt services were continued without interruption until the opening of the Choir and Crossing on April 19th, 1911, the last service having been the Holy Communion at 8 o’clock on the morning of that memorable day. For over a year the congregation of the Church of the Archangel, Harlem, united with the other worshippers at these services, beginning August 6th, 1899, on account of the loss of their church edifice by fire. The Rev. George S. Pratt, the Rector of that parish, was the Sunday morning preacher during that period. The Rev. Dr. Douglas, the Rév. Dr. Peters and the Rev. Dr. Townsend, as Canons Residentiary, preached annual courses of sermons in the Crypt. The five Archdeacons of the Diocese, the Minor Canons, the Canons Missioner, the Rev. Robert G. Quennell, the Rev. Dr. F. Landon Humphreys, the Rev. Dr. Lawrence T. Cole, the Rev. Dr. Walter Thompson and others, including many city Rectors, also preached there from time to time. After temporary help from other organists, Professor Hall rendered valued service at the organ for some years until succeeded by Mr. Farrow in 1909, but being at the same time organist of Saint James’ Church, New York, he was able to fulfil his duties only with the aid of a substitute at a part of the Sunday services at each place. Mr. Thomas Meatyard, our present Assistant Verger, was on duty at the Crypt for seven years before the opening of the Choir. It is expected that this spacious under part of the Choir, which has been so consecrated by sacred uses, will in due time be architecturally improved and designated as the Mortuary Chapel of the Cathedral, and that then the three other stained-glass windows belonging to it, representing the Madonna and Child, the Story of the Cross, and the Good Shepherd, will be set up. The first funeral was on August 1st, 1899.

Choir

On the death of Mr. Heins, September 25th, 1907, the original contract, in accordance with its provisions, was terminated, and the Trustees entered into an agreement with the surviving partner, Mr. C. Grant LaFarge, for the completion of the Choir.

The style is late Romanesque, with a Byzantine influence. Part of the material is a cream colored granite from Lake Mohegan, New York. The interior facing, of soft bluff "Frontenac stone," comes from a fifty acre tract in the county of Pepin, Wisconsin, where the Cathedral, in 1895, bought the exclusive right to quarry stone for fifty years.

An imposing feature of the Choir is the vastness of the scale on which it is built. This vastness, however, is so graced with the beauty of harmony's proportions that only some further additions of decorative color and sculpture are needed to make this a finished paragon of ecclesiastical art.

Among the earliest gifts were the great granite pillars, quarried, cut and set in place by Mr. John Pierce, from the island quarry near Vinal Haven, Maine, each, in two sections, the lower one being thirty-eight feet long, six feet in diameter at the base and weighing about 90 tons; the upper one seventeen feet long, six feet in diameter and weighing about 40 tons. The height of each pillar between the pedestal and capital is, therefore, 55 feet. All support the dome, which is 125 feet above the floor of the ambulatory and 129 feet above the floor of the Crossing. It is said that only one structure, Saint Isaac's Cathedral, Petrograd, has columns approaching them in size. These pillars, the capitals of which have been sculptured by Mr. Post, are all memorials, and on the base of each, on the ambulatory side, one of the following names with accompanying dates, is inscribed in the order here indicated, beginning at the southern end of the sanctuary:

(1) Alonzo Potter, Bishop of Pennsylvania, 1800-1865; (2) Colonel Richard Tylden Auchmuty, U. S. V., 1831-1893; (3) Harry Manigault Morris, 1817-1892; (4) Eugene Augustus Hoffman, 1829-1902 (sometime Dean of the General Theological Seminary); (5) John Jacob Astor, 1763-1848; (6) John Divine Jones, 1814-1895; (7) Josiah Mason Fisk, 1823-1892; (8) Joseph Lawrence, 1788-1872.

The donors in the same order were (1) Bishop H. C. Potter; (2) Mrs. Ellen S. Auchmuty; (3) Georgia E. Morris (in her will); (4) family of Dean Hoffman; (5) Colonel John Jacob Astor; (6) Mrs. Josephine K. Jones; (7) Mrs. George W. Collard; (8) Mr. Sebastian D. Lawrence.

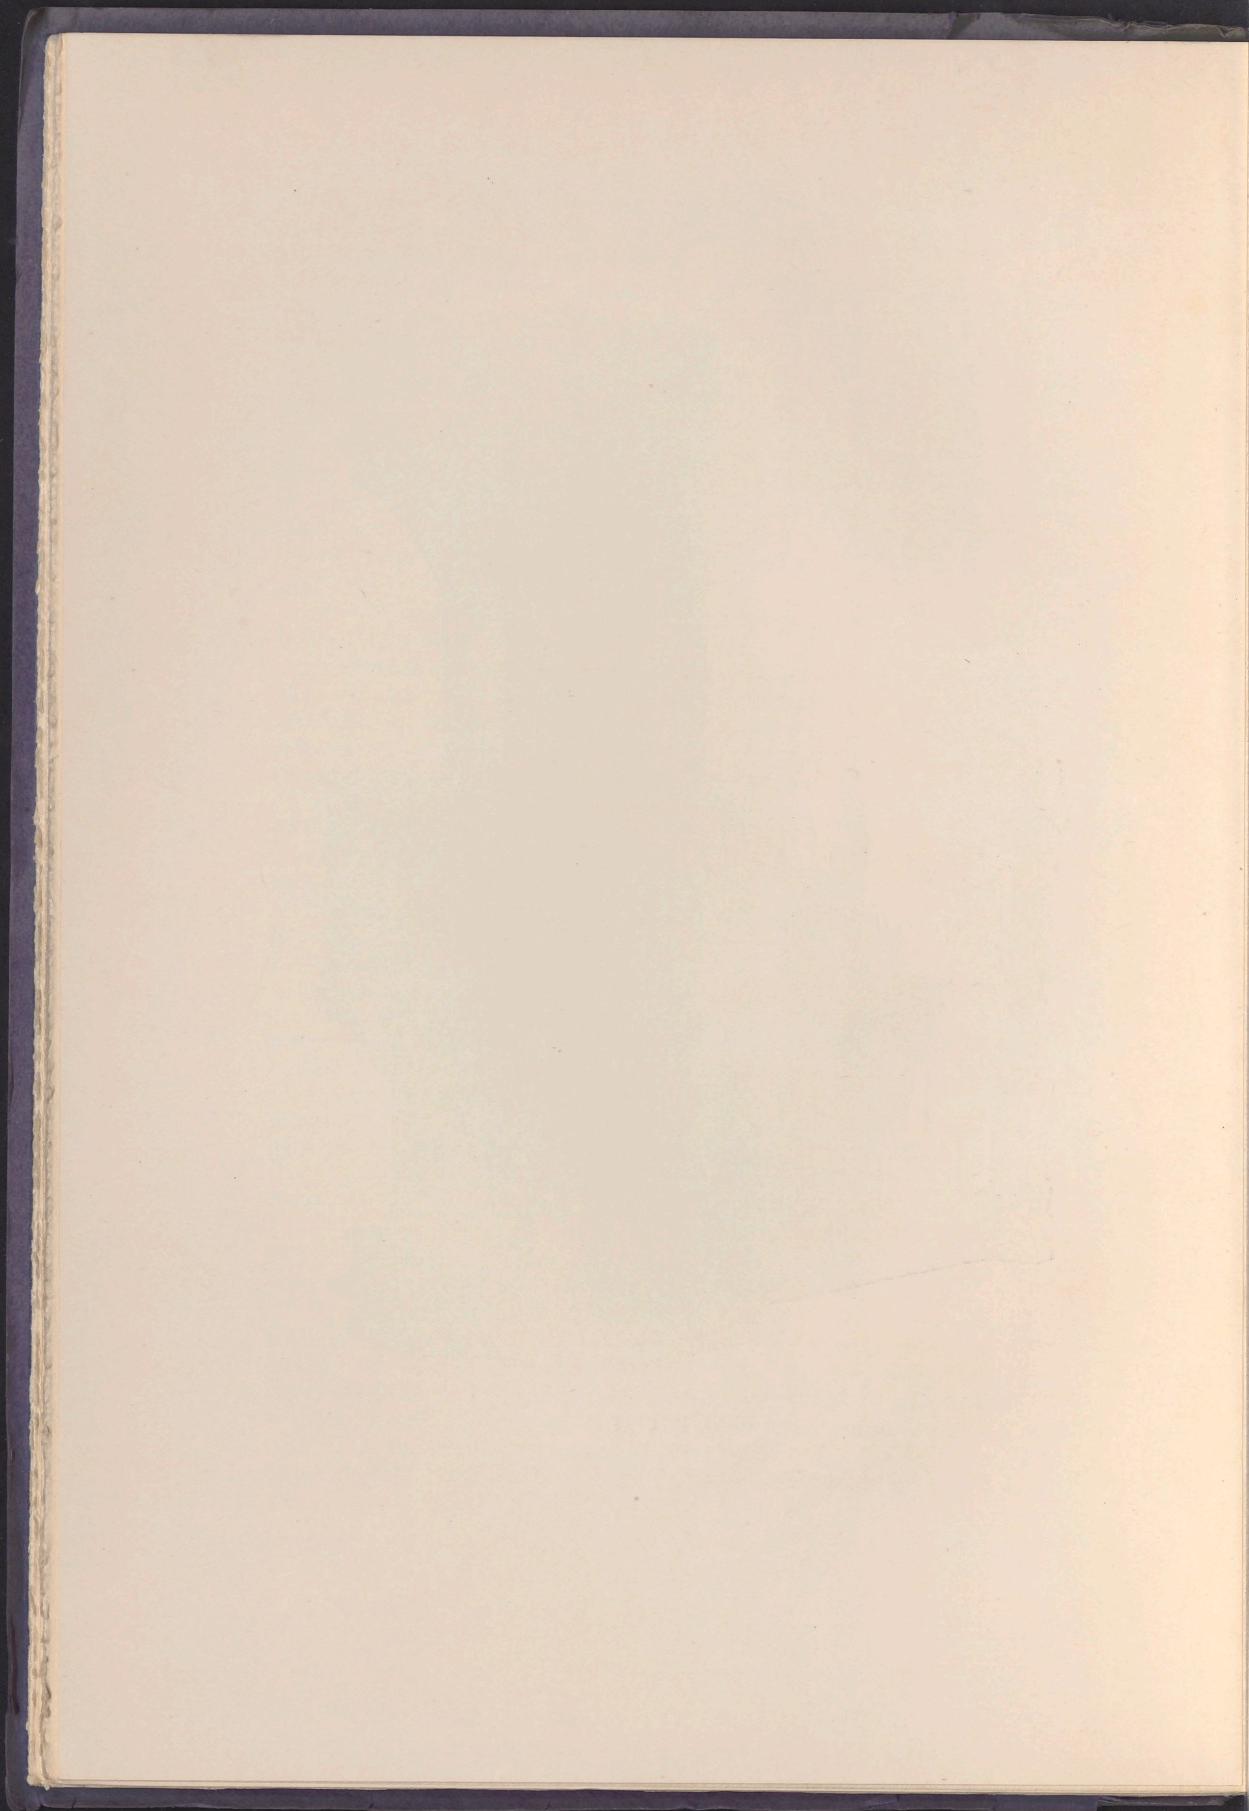

It is proposed to erect in the ambulatory between two of these pillars a monument in memory of the Right Rev. Dr. Horatio Potter, whose eminent service in the Episcopate covered a period of thirty-three years, first, from the date of his consecration, November 22d, 1854, to April 30th, 1861, as Provisional Bishop, and then until his death, January 2d, 1887, as the sixth Bishop of New York. A committee has the matter in hand and is ready to receive funds for the purpose. The chairman is the Rev. William T. Manning, D.D., Rector of Trinity Church, New York, and Trustee of the Cathedral. Without such a memorial tomb this Cathedral, which owes its Charter to the Bishop, could never be complete.

After the great pillars had been set up, further work was prospered by the Hon. Levi P. Morton's subscription of $600,000 for the completion of the Choir. This included the altar and the reredos, built by the Barr, Thaw and Fraser Company. They are well worthy of their environment.

The altar is of Vermont marble, twelve feet nine and three-quarter inches in length, thirty inches in width, and forty-four inches in height. Eight slender columns are slightly embedded in its front, and a graceful little canopy rests upon and between the capitals of each pair. Finely cut imitations of the fruitful grape vine frame the pure whiteness of the three large panels. The cross-surmounted reredos is of Pierre de Lens, the base being of yellow Numidian marble. In the centre is a majestic figure, seven feet in height, which represents our Lord. The other large figures are those of Apostles and Prophets, those on the Epistle side representing the Old Testament, those on the Gospel side the New. On the Epistle side the large figure, six feet five inches in height, represents Moses, the three smaller figures the Prophets Isaiah, Jeremiah and Ezekiel. Arranged in this order from right to left on the Gospel side the larger figure is that of Saint John the Baptist (to whom special prominence is given in the opening chapters of the Fourth Gospel) this being of the same height as the figure of Moses, and the three smaller are the Apostles Saint Peter, Saint James and Saint John. On each side of the niche of Moses and on each side of the niche of Saint John the Baptist are three very small figures of angels standing in a vertical row; at the extreme north end of the reredos are two large figures of angels one above the other facing north; and at the extreme south are two similarly large figures of angels, one above the other, facing south, these four figures not being visible to any one standing in front of the altar. All the sixteen figures of angels hold emblems, including a palm branch; a sword and shield; swinging lamp; trumpet; crown. At the top of the open-work marble frame of the rare pattern of Italian embroidery in colors, 200 years old, are seven canopies which stand out from the reredos underneath the pedestals of the seven nearest statues. Underneath each of these canopies is carved a cluster of grapes; six clusters are seen between the canopies and one cluster at each end, making fifteen in all. The figure of Christ was made by Sig. Lentilla, under the direction of Mr. Carl Bitter. The other statues were made by Mr. Otto Jahnsen.

The great cross, the two candlesticks and four vases on the super-altar, also the altar reading-desk, silver-gilt, were presented by Mr. and Mrs. Morton. The central medallion on the cross contains the figure of a lamb; the emblems of the four Evangelists are represented in other medallions. Around the lower part stand the figures of eight angels, each with a shield bearing a device: crown of thorns, ladder, hammer, spear, sponge, etc. Six standing eagles encircle the base.

The lower part of each of the two large and two small vases has a band ornamented with amethysts, sapphires and topazes, nine large and nine smaller stones being set in each band.

At the same time, the great organ (made by the Ernest M. Skinner Company, of Boston) was given in memory of Lena Kearny Morton (1875-1904) by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Morton. It has 106 speaking stops, 31 couplers, 33 pistons, and over 7,000 pipes. There are 24 stops on the pedal organ, the largest being the Bombarde, a powerful reed of thirty-two feet. There are also two other pedal stops of thirty-two feet. The organ case was built and set up by Messrs. Irving and Casson, of Boston.

The Bishop's throne and the choir stalls of American oak, hand-carved, made by Mr. John Barber, of Philadelphia, were given by Mrs. Morton in memory of her mother, Susan Watts Street (1818-1893). They have been copied from a photograph of stalls in the Cathedral of Saint Domenico, Taormina, Sicily. On the tops of some of the stalls are figures of great musicians, viz.: South side (from west): King David; Saint Cecilia (of Rome; second century; patroness of sacred music); Giovanni P. A. da Palestrina (Italian composer, 1524-1594); Henry Purcell (1658-1695; at the age of eighteen appointed organist of Westminster Abbey); Joseph Haydn (1732-1809); Felix Mendelssohn-Bartholdy (1809-1847). North side: Asaph (appointed by King David leading chorister); Saint Gregory (the Great, 540-604; introduced Gregorian chant about 590); Thomas Tallis (1515-1585; father of English Cathedral music); Johann Sebastian Bach (1685-1750); Georg F. Handel (1685-1759); Dimitri S. Bortniansky (1752-1825; reduced Russian Church music to a system).

The sculptor of these statues was Mr. Otto Jahnsen.

On one of the piers of the north ambulatory, close to the entrance to the spiral stairs, Mr. Scott has carved a bust representing one of the choir boys of the class of 1911.

The bronze lectern (made by the Gorham Company) is in memory of Horatio Potter, Sixth Bishop of New York, and is the gift of Mrs. James Herman Aldrich. It is eight feet six inches in height, and in the main is an enlarged copy of the lectern in the Chester Cathedral. An eagle standing on a globe supports the reading-desk and Bible. Standing out from the middle of the lectern and surrounding it are figures of the four Evangelists: Saint Matthew, holding an open book; Saint Mark, closed book and pen; Saint Luke, open book in one hand and pen in the other; Saint John, a chalice. Under these figures are arranged their emblems: angel, lion, ox and eagle, respectively. The lectern rests upon four crouching lions.

A silk flag of the United States, displayed from the organ loft, is also the gift of Mrs. Aldrich.

The marble pulpit (Mr. Henry Vaughan, Architect) presented by Mrs. Russell Sage in memory of Bishop Henry C. Potter has not yet been set up in the Cathedral, but a picture of it accompanies this narrative. It is described as follows: Carved in relief around the upper part are representations of "The Nativity," "The Crucifixion," "The Resurrection," and "The Supper at Emmaus." Between these subjects are niches containing statues of Saint Jerome, Saint Gregory, Saint Peter, Saint Paul, Latimer, Bossuet and Phillips Brooks. Surmounting the stair newel posts are statues of Saint John the Baptist and Isaiah. On the base are carved the emblems of the four Evangelists. The stair has a balustrade of pierced tracery. The entire pulpit, including the stair, is of fine pink Knoxville marble. The sounding board is of quartered oak, richly carved.

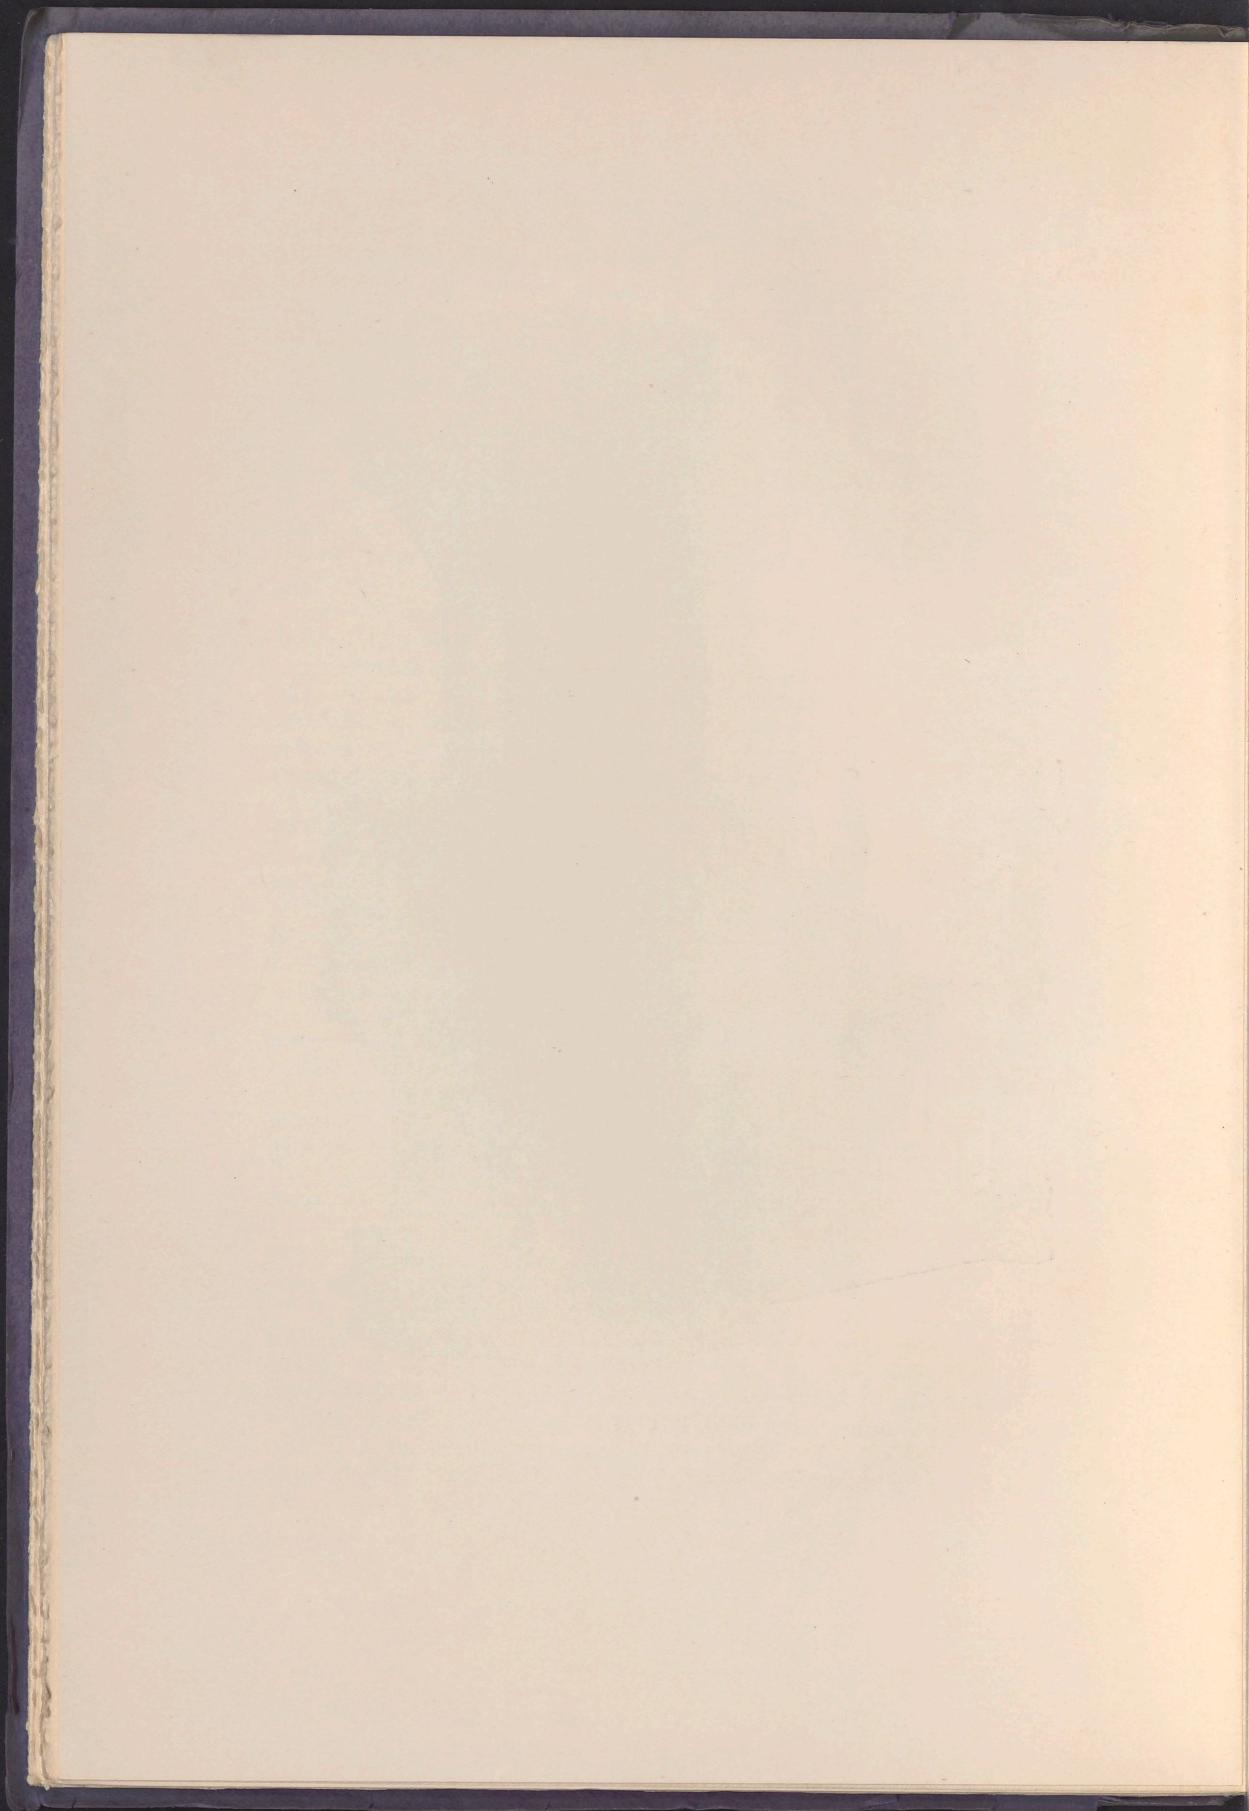

Of the great steel gates cross-crowned, at the western end of the ambulatory of the Choir, the pair on the south side was presented by the Cathedral League, and the other pair on the north side by the Diocesan Auxiliary to the Cathedral, with the generous help of a member of its Executive Board. These gates were designed by Messrs. Warren and Wetmore, who donated the plans.

The central east window, in memory of the Hon. Whitelaw Reid, whose funeral took place at the Cathedral on January 4th, 1913, was presented by his wife. It was unveiled December 15th, 1913. The makers were the Ernest M. Powell Company, of London, and it is described as follows: gas. & sons

In the central light of the window is the Son of Man as described in the book of the Revelation. He stands with upraised hands, the source of heavenly light. He wears a regal crown, a regal crimson mantle and a golden pallium. He is surrounded by winged seraphim; around Him are the seven golden candlesticks; beneath is the rainbow of emerald overarching the sea of glass, "like unto crystal." At the base is the river of the water of life flowing through all three lights, and which it is hoped will eventually flow through all the lights of the apsidal windows, and knit the whole series together. In the sidelights of the window are the four archangels—Saint Michael, Saint Uriel, Saint Gabriel, and Saint Raphael.

Provision has been made for the following additional windows, but they are not yet ready:

1. In memory of Gabriel Ludlow, from Mrs. E. C. Ludlow Johnson.
2. In memory of Saint Monica, from Miss Caroline Phelps Stokes.
3. In memory of the Right Rev. Dr. John Henry Hobart, Third Bishop of New York, subject to be Saint Paul Preaching at Athens, from the Executors of the Estate of Caroline Tallman.
4. In memory of John C. Hamilton, from the Executors of the Estate of his daughter, Charlotte A. Hamilton.
5. In memory of Morgan Lewis Livingston and Catharine Manning Livingston, from their daughter, Miss Julia Livingston.
6. In memory of James Muhlenberg Bailey, from Mrs. A. R. Bailey.
7. In memory of Annie Allen Wallace, from the Executors of the Estate of Mr. John Wallace.
8. In memory of Sophia R. C. Furniss, from her sister, Mrs. Margaret E. Zimmerman.
9. From Miss Josephine E. Leeds, in memory of her parents, John W. and Eliza Leeds, and of her sister, Emily Irene Leeds Hardenbergh.

The sanctuary and other pavements of the Choir, including the ambulatory, designed by Mr. C. Grant LaFarge, and being a combination of Romanesque and Byzantine art, have been made by the Grueby Faience and Tile Company, of Boston.

The ambulatory is kept quite simple in the reds, or more earthy colors; the Choir is more ornate with greens and whites predominating to symbolize hope and purity. The sanctuary is very rich in treatment, blues, greens and whites predominating, symbolizing purity, hope, and heaven. In other words, the pavements are not merely beautiful designs and colors, but are intended to represent in approaches to the altar, first, our earthly existence; then, purity with hope, and lastly, purity and hope reaching heaven.

A red tile, fourteen inches square, brought by the Right Rev. Dr. Kinsman from the ancient Church of Saint John the Divine, built by Justinian in the year 540, over the site of Saint John's grave at Ephesus, is imbedded with a suitable inscription in the marble floor near the front of the altar.

The bronze statue of Saint Gabriel facing east and blowing a trumpet on top of the Choir is nine and one-half feet high. The sculptor was Mr. Gutzon Borglum.

The statues on the exterior walls of the Choir are also nine and one-half feet high. They are as follows: Saint Simon, with saw; Saint Jude, with spear; Saint Matthew, with bag; Saint Andrew, with cross; Saint Peter, with key; Saint James the Great, with shepherd's crook; Saint Thomas, with square; Saint Bartholomew; Saint Philip, with cross; Saint James the Less. They have all been modelled by Mr. Gutzon Borglum, sculptor, and carved by Messrs. Barr, Thaw and Fraser on the Cathedral grounds.

The Bishop's sedilia and the clergy stalls in the sanctuary, also the canopied seat opposite the Bishop's throne—all made by Messrs. Irving and Casson—were designed by Messrs. Cram and Ferguson after the completion of the Choir.

The other stalls provide sittings for one hundred and twenty persons in addition to the choristers. The north gallery accommodates fifty persons, and the south gallery thirty.

Crossing

In order that work on the Crossing for the housing of the congregation might go forward without further delay, Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan subscribed $100,000, on condition that a like sum be obtained from other sources. Fortunately the Trustees were soon able to avail themselves of this generous offer. Mr. George S. Bowdoin contributed $75,000, and the Woman's Auxiliary to the Cathedral League made up the remainder of the required sum. The names of some of the donors to this special fund are specified in the financial statement herewith. Other gifts, including $5,000, from the Rev. Canon and Mrs. George William Douglas, and $1,000, from Mrs. James Herman Aldrich were included in sums credited later under the head of "subscriptions and donations," to the Cathedral League, having been transferred through its Treasurer to the Cathedral Treasurer.

The litany desk of carved oak which stands at the head of the centre aisle of the Crossing was made at Fond du Lac, and presented by the Laymen's Club of the Cathedral in commemoration of the consecration of the Choir and two chapels. It is surmounted by two kneeling angels facing the altar. The figures at the base, also facing eastward, represent Saint Michael, with a sword, Saint John, with a chalice, and Saint Gabriel, with lilies.

The dome is 162 feet above the floor, and will ultimately be raised about 100 feet higher.

Of the temporary concrete walls the western one is to disappear when the proposed Nave extends beyond it, and those on the north and south will give way later to the Transepts.

The seats now in use by the congregation number 1,305. At first there were 1,750, but later some of the floor space was appropriated for an inner vestibule and also for a widening of the aisles.

Barberini Tapestries

About fifteen years before the completion of the Choir and Crossing, Mrs. Elizabeth Underhill Coles presented to the Cathedral twelve pictures of New Testament scenes wrought in tapesries which formerly adorned the Barberini Palace at Rome, having been made at the manufactory which was founded by Cardinal Barberini in the same city in the early part of the seventeenth century. Three of the largest are fifteen feet eight inches high and seventeen feet in width. The others are nearly as large. Some of these tapesries were temporarily displayed on the walls of the Crypt at the time services were maintained there. Seven of them are now seen at the eastern end of the ambulatory as follows: Beginning on the left, the Baptism, Annunciation, Adoration of the Magi, Crucifixion (in the centre above the reredos and underneath the east window), Transfiguration, Resurrection, Agony in the Garden. Four are on the walls of the Crossing, viz.: The Last Supper, Adoration of the Shepherds, Flight into Egypt, Delivery of the Keys to St. Peter. One of the tapesries, representing Jerusalem and its environs, is not displayed.

Cathedral's Debt to Dr. Huntington

The distinguished service rendered by the Rev. Dr. William Reed Huntington as Trustee, during a period of twenty-two years until his lamented death in 1909, deserves more than a passing word of recognition. One of the strong qualities which played an important part in the many achievements of his ministry was diligence in pressing toward his mark. This was one of his fine qualifications as Chairman of the Building Committee. He was notably successful in obtaining large subscriptions for the completion of the Choir and Crossing which permitted the inauguration of services above ground, after their maintenance for twelve years in the Crypt.

Nothing was more characteristic of Dr. Huntington's saintly spirit than its absolute sincerity, and no man could have a more conscientious desire to be sure of being right before going ahead. He was profoundly sure he was right in working for this great enterprise. He was a seer, but he needed no light above the brightness of the sun to see the power for good that was growing with the growth and strengthening with the strength of this material fabric. He understood the spiritual meaning which justified every inch of its size and every cent of its cost, from the deep foundations which he helped to lay to the "diademed towers" that flashed in the light of his hope. And so the spirit within the wheels of his activities, as one of its wise master builders, must have been aglow with the Psalmist's thought: "This is the Lord's doing, and it is marvellous in our eyes." Well, therefore, may the Cathedral's friends rejoice in the heritage of his example of faith and good works.

Consecration of Choir and First Two Chapels

At half past ten o'clock on the morning of Wednesday in Easter week, April 19th, 1911, the Choir, the Chapel of Saint Saviour and the Chapel of Saint Columba, were consecrated by Bishop Greer. Representatives of the Laymen's Club acted as ushers. The procession, numbering, with the choir, five hundred persons, proceeded from the northwest door of Old Synod House and entered the Cathedral at the middle door of the west end of the Crossing. It included twenty-four Bishops, the Cathedral Chapter, Standing Committee of the Diocese, Deputies and Provisional Deputies to the General Convention, representatives of the Cathedral League, Dean and Faculty of the General Theological Seminary, Clergy of the Diocese, Clergy of other Dioceses and Clergy of other Communions.

The Hon. Levi P. Morton read a paper asking for the acceptance of his memorial gifts for the completion of the Choir, and Mr. George Macculloch Miller, representing the Trustees, read the corresponding instrument of Donation.

Mr. August Belmont read a paper asking for the acceptance of his gift of the Memorial Chapel of Saint Saviour, and Mr. Charles F. Hoffman, on behalf of the Cathedral Trustees, read the corresponding instrument of Donation.

Mr. George Gordon King read a paper asking for the acceptance of the gift of the Memorial Chapel of Saint Columba by the donor whom he represented, and Mr. Henry Lewis Morris, of the Board of Cathedral Trustees, read the corresponding instrument of Donation.

After the consecrating prayers by the Bishop, Mr. George Macculloch Miller read the Sentence of Consecration. Morning Prayer was said as follows: First part, Archdeacon Nelson; First Lesson, The Rev. Wm. M. Grosvenor, D.D.; Second Lesson, the Rev. Canon George William Douglas, D.D.; Creed and Collects, the Rev. William T. Manning, D.D.

Bishop Greer preached the sermon on the text: Honour all men. Love the brotherhood. Fear God. Honour the king. 1 Peter 2:17. He also celebrated the Holy Communion, assisted by the Right Rev. Dr. Lawrence, Bishop of Massachusetts, Epistoller; the Right Rev. Dr. Vincent, Bishop of Southern Ohio, Gospeller; and by the Right Rev. Dr. Burch, Suffragan Bishop of New York. The offering was for the maintenance of the services and the completion of the fabric, but subscriptions representing $150,000 were placed upon the altar for the building fund of the Chapel in memory of the Rev. Dr.

William Reed Huntington, late Rector of Grace Church, New York, and Trustee of the Cathedral.

The completion of the Choir having terminated the contract with Mr. LaFarge, the Trustees soon afterward appointed Mr. Ralph Adams Cram Consulting Architect, and he continued to serve the Cathedral in that capacity for three years.

Before the corner-stone was laid a legacy of $100,000 was received from the estate of Mrs. F. T. Holland in commemoration of the life and services of her father, the late Bishop Brownell, and the following is the inscription selected for the first tablet ordered by the Trustees to be set up in the Cathedral, viz.:

IN MEMORY OF
THE RIGHT REV. THOMAS CHURCH BROWNELL,
D.D., LL.D.,
BORN 1779—DIED 1865

THIRD BISHOP OF CONNECTICUT

1819—1865

Presiding Bishop 1852—1865

General Convention

During the General Convention of 1913 the House of Bishops met in Old Synod Hall, the House of Deputies in New Synod Hall, and Joint Sessions of the two houses were held at the Cathedral. Luncheons were served at the National Academy of Design and under canvas in the adjoining lot on the south side of the Cathedral Parkway, opposite New Synod House.

A special meeting of the House of Bishops had previously been held in Old Synod Hall, that is, on February 11th and 12th, 1912.

Chapels of Tongues

It is a distinction of the Cathedral of Saint John the Divine that it has seven Chapels of Tongues. They open into the ambulatory close about the sanctuary. One of the largest of these chapels will soon be consecrated in Bishop Henry C. Potter's memory. It represents the offering made for this purpose by Mrs. Potter, who survived her distinguished husband only about eight months. It represents also the labor of love of her sons, Mr. Edward Severin Clark, Mr. Robert Sterling Clark, Mr. Frederick Ambrose Clark, and Mr. Stephen Carlton Clark, who have united in carrying the noble plan into effect, and thus have fulfilled her wishes by the erection of a Memorial to the Bishop, which in every detail is so worthy of the sentiment that first inspired it.

Mindful of the polyglot character of the city's population, the Bishop was one of the first and most ardent friends of the plan for the Chapels of Tongues. It is, therefore, peculiarly fitting that the house of worship which honors his memory should be one of these promising chapels which, before the foundations of any of them were laid, set melody's chimes of the spirit ringing in his hopes for their usefulness. It may well be called "a psalm incarnate in stone," to express a psalm of thanksgiving for the ministry of him to whom it is a tribute.

The Chapels of Tongues represent seven different rites. All are memorials, as indicated in the following list:

SAINT SAVIOUR'S CHAPEL. Oriental rite. In memory of Bessie Morgan Belmont. Gift of her husband, Mr. August Belmont. Architects, Messrs. Heins and LaFarge. Gothic. The description includes the following details: the interior walls are of Frontenac stone; the base of the wall is a red crystalline stone; the altar, of Carrara marble, has been made by Messrs. Batterson and Eislle, of Hackensack. The reredos is of Siena marble. Mr. Schwartz was the sculptor. In the centre of the retable is carved the Crown of Thorns, supported by cherubs. The scheme of statuary is determined by the dedication of this chapel to the Holy Saviour. On the exterior appears the child Christ at the apex of the gable; at either side of the great window, crowning the buttresses, are represented the Angels of the Resurrection; below the window is the Virgin with Saint Simeon and Saint Zacharias. On the interior, the niches of the ambulatory arch are filled entirely with angels; those at either side of the east window have figures of bishops, saints, and scholars of the Eastern Church. Statues of Saint Peter and Saint Paul are in niches in the upper part of the walls of the entrance bay. The sculptor of the statues within and outside of the chapel was Mr. Borglum. The centre east window represents the Transfiguration, with Moses on the right and Elias on the left (looking toward the window); in the upper part of the north window, the Burning Bush is represented; in the lower part, Moses Lifting up the Brazen Serpent; the upper part of the south window represents the Angel appearing to Elijah; in the lower part, Elijah's sacrifice. The glass has been made by Mr. Hardman, of Birmingham, England. The wrought iron screen and double gate at the entrance have been made by the William H. Jackson Company, of New York.

SAINT COLUMBA (born 521; received Island of Iona from his kinsman Conal, King of the Scots). Scots' Chapel. British rite. In memory of Mary LeRoy King. Gift of her mother, Mrs. Edward King. Architects, Messrs. Heins and LaFarge. Norman. The altar, of Italian marble, was made by Messrs. Batterson and Eislle. The statuary, both within and without the chapel, was modelled by Mr. Gutzon Borglum. The exterior figures represent the patron saints of the peoples of the British Isles: Saint George, of England; Saint Andrew, of Scotland; Saint Patrick, of Ireland, and Saint

David, of Wales. A small figure of Saint Columba has been placed in the tracery of the window over the altar. Within the chapel, in niches in the pillars at the entrance, are statues of twenty representatives of the successive stages in the development of Christianity in England. They are arranged in chronological order, beginning at the top. North side: Saint Alban, Saint Augustine, of Canterbury, Venerable Bede, King Alfred, John Wycliffe, William of Wykeham, Richard Hooker, Jeremy Taylor, John Wesley, Reginald Heber. South side: Saint Aidan, Theodore of Canterbury, Saint Anselm, Stephen Langton, Thomas Cranmer, Matthew Parker, George Berkeley, Joseph Butler, of Durham, John Keble, Frederick Denison Maurice. The interior walls are of Frontenac stone with a base of polished Mohegan granite, above which is a moulding of yellow Verona marble. The floor and sanctuary steps are of a fine-grained gray stone from Illinois. The vault over the sanctuary is enriched by a facing of very simple gold mosaic, upon which appear Celtic crosses in black and white. The wrought iron screen and double gate at the entrance have been made by the Industrial Ornamental Iron Works, of Philadelphia. The centre window represents the Baptism of Christ; the north, Saint John; the south, Saint Paul. The other windows, in grisaille, are copies of the famous lancet windows called the Five Sisters, in the north transept of York Cathedral. Makers, Messrs. Clayton and Bell, of London.

SAIN^T AMBROSE (citizen of Rome; born in Gaul; fourth century; Bishop of Milan). Italian rite. In memory of Augustus Whiting, Sarah Swan Whiting, Jane Whiting, Amelia Whiting Davis, Augustus Whiting, Jr., Natick Rives Burden. Gift of Mrs. George L. Rives. Renaissance design. Architects, Messrs. Carrere and Hastings, who describe the chapel in part as follows: The altar and retable are of white alabaster. Three gold ornaments are on the face of the altar, the central one being a lamb with the cross, and at the sides are angels swinging censers. Back of the retable is a large carved wood reredos, treated in antique gold. Directly above the retable, in a niche at either side of the reredos, stand, on the right Saint Ambrose and on the left Saint Francis, the central space being filled by a triptych. In the niche at either side above Saint Ambrose and Saint Francis is a kneeling angel. In the space between these niches are six smaller niches in which are placed figures of Saint Benedict, Saint Agnes, Dante, Fra Angelico, Galileo, and Savonarola. Above the central portion of the triptych is a canopy surmounted by a spire, the central motive being a large cross above which are the symbols of the Holy Ghost and God the Father, the spire being surmounted by a figure of the reigning Christ. The whole has been treated like an antique gold Italian reredos, enhanced with color. The steps of the floor of the Chapel are of Cenere marble, from Northern Italy, while the centre of the floor is of gray Siena and red Verona marble. The walls are of Rosato marble, the lower portions being treated with carved stalls of Italian walnut, with a rich treatment of marquetry in pear wood. Above the gates of a wrought iron Italian screen at the entrance stands the figure of Saint Ambrose facing the altar. A series of groups represent the life of Saint Ambrose: First, as a child; second, representing him settling the dispute which arose at the death of the Bishop of Milan between the Catholics and the Arians concerning the succession; third, his baptism; fourth, preaching to monks and nuns; fifth, the Emperor Theodosius is in the act of making public penance for his sins before entering the church; sixth, laying the corner-stone for Sant' Ambrogio Maggiore at Milan in A.D. 387; seventh, representing his death, surrounded by angels. These pictures are surmounted by architectural ornaments which form sockets for seven candles at either end of which stands an angel. The chapel is naturally lighted by three large windows, and there are four beautiful antique silver lamps.

SAIN T JAMES (The Great). Spanish Chapel. Mozarabic rite. In memory of Henry Codman Potter. Gift of his wife, Elizabeth Scriven Potter. Gothic of the fourteenth century. Architect, Mr. Henry Vaughan. Described as follows: The extreme interior length is 66 feet, width 39 feet, and height, from floor to apex of the stone groined ceiling, 41 feet. The altar is of gray Knoxville marble of the finest quality. On the front is carved the Last Supper after Da Vinci. The reredos is of limestone, and has in the centre a carving in bold relief of the Transfiguration; below this and immediately above the altar is a carving of the Nativity. On either side of the Transfiguration are statues in niches representing the four Evangelists. The whole is surmounted with delicately carved canopy work. Above the reredos is an enrichment of adoring angels, and above this comes the east window which, owing to the close proximity of the adjoining chapel, could only be made three lights wide. The centre stained glass represents Saint James; the north, Saint Lawrence; the south, Saint Vincent; all made by Messrs. C. E. Kempe and Co., of London. Considering what little direct light comes in this window the glass is very effective. In the blank panels formed by the mullions are statues of Saint Peter and Saint Paul. Other statues in the chapel are as follows: On the west wall Christ in the centre niche, with Saint James the Great and Saint James the Less on either side. In niches on the east wall are statues of Saint Augustine of England and Saint Gregory the Great. In a niche on the north wall is William of Wykeham. In a niche at the west end of the aisle is a statue of the Venerable Bede. The organ recess in the north wall has an oak case and organist gallery both richly carved. The iron gates at the entrance are set in a stone screen.

The Bishop was born May 25th, 1834; consecrated October 20th, 1883, at Grace Church, of which he had been rector for about fifteen years, and died at Cooperstown, New York, July 21st, 1908, having been Assistant Bishop of New York from October 20th,

MONUMENT OF HENRY CODMAN POTTER. UNFINISHED

1883, to January 2d, 1887, and Bishop of New York from the latter date to the date of his death. On the twenty-fifth anniversary of his consecration his funeral was held in the same Grace Church at which he had left an enduring impress of his work and worth before he was called to step up higher. On the day of the funeral his body was deposited in a vault under the sanctuary of the Cathedral Crypt. It will be removed to its permanent resting-place in the monument that stands within and on the south side of this Chapel of Saint James.

The monument—the first to be placed in the Cathedral—consists of a sarcophagus of Siena marble surmounted by a recumbent figure of the Bishop in Serevezza marble, and is a fine example of the sculptor's art by Mr. James E. Fraser. In designing the sarcophagus Mr. Fraser was assisted by Mr. Henry Bacon, Architect. This worthy tribute of love comes from the Bishop's children, Mr. Alonzo Potter, Mrs. Henry Fitch Taylor, Mrs. Charles Howland Russell, Mrs. William Henry Hyde and Miss Sarah L. Potter.

If, in the growing centuries, this Cathedral Church is to become another Westminster Abbey, where honor will set its seal on the dust of many men of renown, it could have no better beginning of its monuments than this tomb of its practical founder, who, moreover, was a peer among the Episcopate's exemplars whose ministries have been full of grace and power because they have served their fellow-men in the spirit of loyalty to the Lord of all.

SAINT BONIFACE (real name Winfred or Winifrid; born in Devonshire, about 680, of German ancestry; Apostle of Germany; Archbishop). Holland Chapel. German rite. Erected by Mr. George Sullivan Bowdoin, his wife, Julia Grinnell Bowdoin, and their children, Temple Bowdoin, Fanny Hamilton Kingsford and Edith Grinnell Bowdoin. Architect, Mr. Henry Vaughan. English Gothic of the fourteenth century. The altar and reredos are of gray Knoxville marble. The reredos is richly carved. The central subject is the Adoration of the Magi, with figures of angels bearing scrolls in their hands in niches on either side. The whole is surmounted by elaborate canopy work. Carved oak clergy stalls are placed on either side of the altar in the recesses formed by the windows. In the westward bays where no windows occur are statues placed on pedestals surmounted by canopies. There are three of these, viz.: Saint Boniface, Thomas à Kempis and Erasmus. On the exterior of the building are statues of Charlemagne, Alcuin, Gutenberg and Luther. A scheme for the stained glass is being prepared. The subjects will be large single figures with our Lord in the centre window of the apse. A wrought iron screen with gates will separate the chapel from the Cathedral ambulatory. Three wrought iron electric lamps are suspended by chains from the ceiling. The floor is of pink Knoxville and Belgian black marble, and the steps are of pink Knoxville marble.

SAINT MARTIN OF TOURS. (Fourth century; Bishop of Tours; Patron Saint of France). Huguenot Chapel. Gallican rite. In memory of William P. Furniss and his wife, Sophia Furniss, and their daughter, Sophia R. C. Furniss. Erected by Miss Clementina Furniss. Architects, Messrs. Cram and Ferguson. Gothic of the early part of the thirteenth century, and more specifically French than holds elsewhere in and around the Cathedral. It depends for its principal effect chiefly on the most carefully studied proportions, and as well on a great richness in light and shade obtained by a thickening of the walls which permits placing the sequence of deep windows in deep embrasures with a kind of triforium gallery built in the thickness of the wall. Every effort has been made to reproduce, both in design and in construction, the essential qualities inherent in the highest type of mediæval work. The construction is straight masonry throughout, and the workmanship approaches in perfection of cutting, joining, and carving, the high standards maintained in France in the thirteenth century. In the exterior the general proportions and dimensions of the corresponding chapel to the north have been preserved, but in detail the changes in design cover every portion of the work and serve to express outwardly the artistic and structural qualities of the interior. The grisaille windows, which are notable examples of this restored type of mediæval glass, are the work of Mr. Charles J. Connick, of Boston.

SAINT ANSGARIUS (ninth century; Missionary to Danes and Swedes; Archbishop of Hamburg). Swedes' Chapel. Scandinavian rite. In memory of William Reed Huntington, Rector of Grace Church, 1884-1909; Chairman of the Cathedral Building Committee, 1902-1909. Altar and reredos presented by Mrs. Julia Grinnell Bowdoin. Gifts for the Building Fund reported on pages 96—100. Interior not yet completed. Architect, Mr. Henry Vaughan. The scheme for the sculpture and the furnishings has not yet been decided upon. The plan is very much the same as that of Saint James's Chapel, except that it consists of two bays instead of three. The dimensions and style of architecture are the same.

This group of chapels stands about the Choir in the following order: At the east end, Saint Saviour's; thence looking westward, on the north side, Saint Columba, Saint Boniface, and Saint Ansarius; again looking westward from Saint Saviour's, but on the south side, are Saint Martin, Saint Ambrose and Saint James.

As already mentioned, the Chapel of Saint Saviour and the Chapel of Saint Columba were both consecrated on April 19th, 1911. Saint Ambrose Chapel was consecrated on April 23d, 1914. The Chapel of Saint Boniface is ready, and the Chapel of Saint Martin of Tours nearly ready for consecration. The consecration of the Chapel of Saint James awaits the completion of Bishop Potter's monument.

The first service at Saint Saviour's Chapel for a congregation of Orientals was on Sunday afternoon, December 31st, 1911. The services in Saint Ambrose Chapel include the Holy Communion with an address in Italian on every Sunday morning.

Surely it would be a wise investment to endow each of the seven chapels for its special work. Assurances have just been received that two of them are to be provided by will with separate endowments. No seed-sowing and harvest-reaping in any mission field in the coming years will be more important than that which this enterprise shares among the multitude brought hither from other lands. The Trustees are to be congratulated on the prospect of soon seeing in full operation their plan for the celebration of the Holy Communion in seven languages at an early hour on Sunday mornings. And this will be a new object lesson of one of the wonders of Pentecost which prompted so many strangers in Jerusalem of old time to exclaim: "How hear we every man in our own tongue, wherein we were born? We do hear them speak in our tongues the wonderful works of God."

In ministering to brethren of our faith who are of alien speech, whether they worship with us before or after they learn the English language, the Cathedral aims to do its share in helping them to grow more and more in righteousness, and in an intelligent allegiance to the country of their adoption that opens for them a highway so full of hope and cheer for themselves and their children.

Pro-Cathedral

The Pro-Cathedral, at 130 Stanton Street, has made a place in the history of missions in New York, and it deserves a place in the history of the Cathedral's development. The site was first occupied by the Church of the Epiphany for forty-one years until, in 1874, it was exchanged for four lots in East 50th Street, owned and occupied by the Church of the Reformation; then by the latter church until 1888, when it was transferred to the corporation of Saint George's Parish. Later it was called Old Epiphany House. Bishop Potter took charge of the premises in 1894, and made himself responsible for the task of raising funds for the continuance of the mission upon a larger scale under the name of the Pro-Cathedral, and, in connection with it, he established a settlement work at 153 Essex Street. The Vicars were the Rev. Francis R. Bateman (1894-1895), the Rev. Hiram R. Hulse, now Bishop of Cuba (1896-1898), the Rev. Robert L. Paddock, now Bishop of Eastern Oregon (1899-1901) and the Rev. Philip M. Kerridge (1902-1903). Although their services were of brief duration, they all endeared to that crowded centre of population the Cathedral idea which their earnest ministries so well expressed; and Deaconess Sarah F. Brown shared in their missionary activities from the beginning until, in 1901, the Bishop transferred her to the Cathedral staff of workers where she is still on duty.

The Diocesan Committee for the Extension of Cathedral and Pro-Cathedral Work in the City of New York was a zealous and efficient auxiliary. It was organized in 1900, with the following officers: President, Mrs. William Chandler Casey; First Vice-President, Mrs. Richard Irvin; Second Vice-President, Miss Amy Townsend; Third Vice-President, Miss Julia G. McAllister; Recording Secretary, Mrs. A. E. Gallant; Corresponding Secretary, Miss Caroline Bunker; Treasurer, Mrs. Bruce Price.

The following was the Standing Committee of the Pro-Cathedral appointed by the Bishop to co-operate with him in the work of administration: Rev. George F. Nelson, D.D., Chairman; Mr. William Chandler Casey, Mr. John Greenough, Mr. George Debevoise, Mr. Frank H. Potter, Mr. John Seely Ward, Jr. Mr. John Greenough was also the Treasurer.

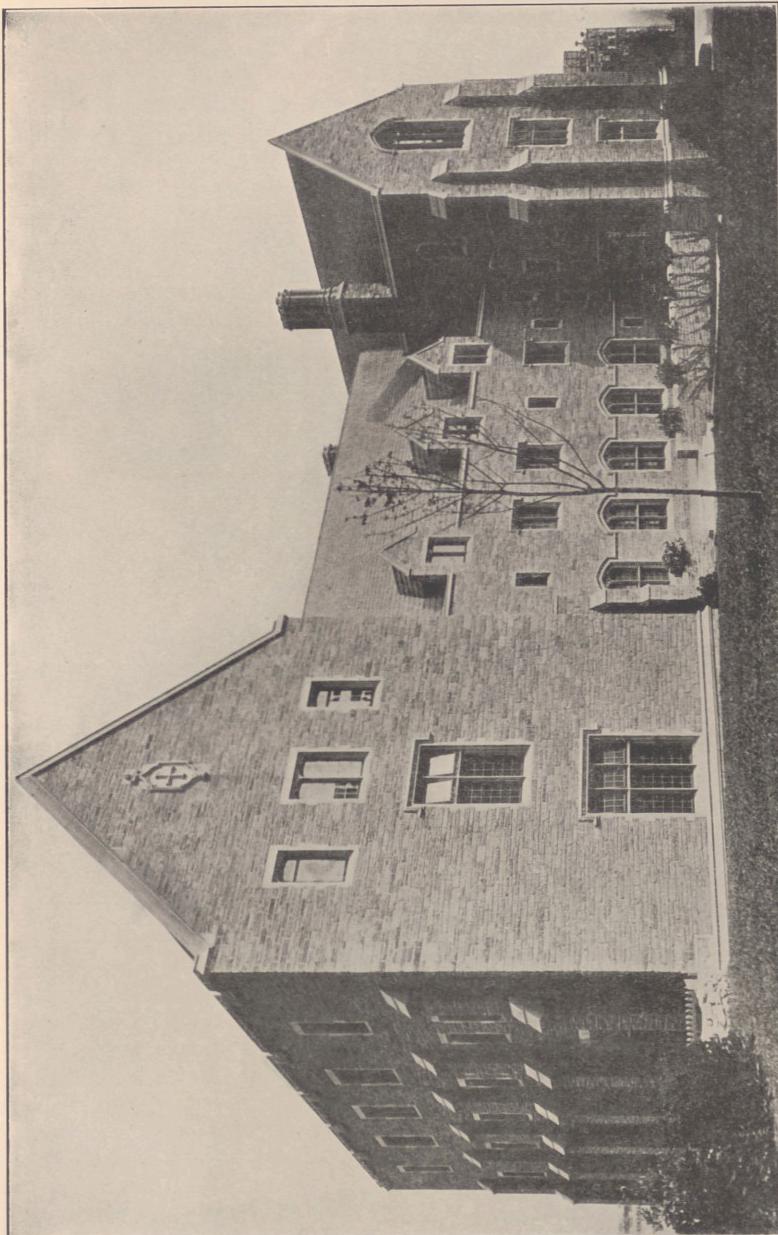

For some years in summer months many of the children of the neighborhood were sent with caretakers to the Cathedral grounds early on pleasant Sunday afternoons, and remained there until after the open air service. A fund for their carfare was provided by a friend.

In November, 1900, the Pro-Cathedral drew to itself the attention of the whole city, if not of the whole country, on account of Bishop Potter's memorable letter to the Mayor of New York which sounded a ringing protest against the lawlessness that flaunted itself in the neighborhood under the protection of officers of the law.

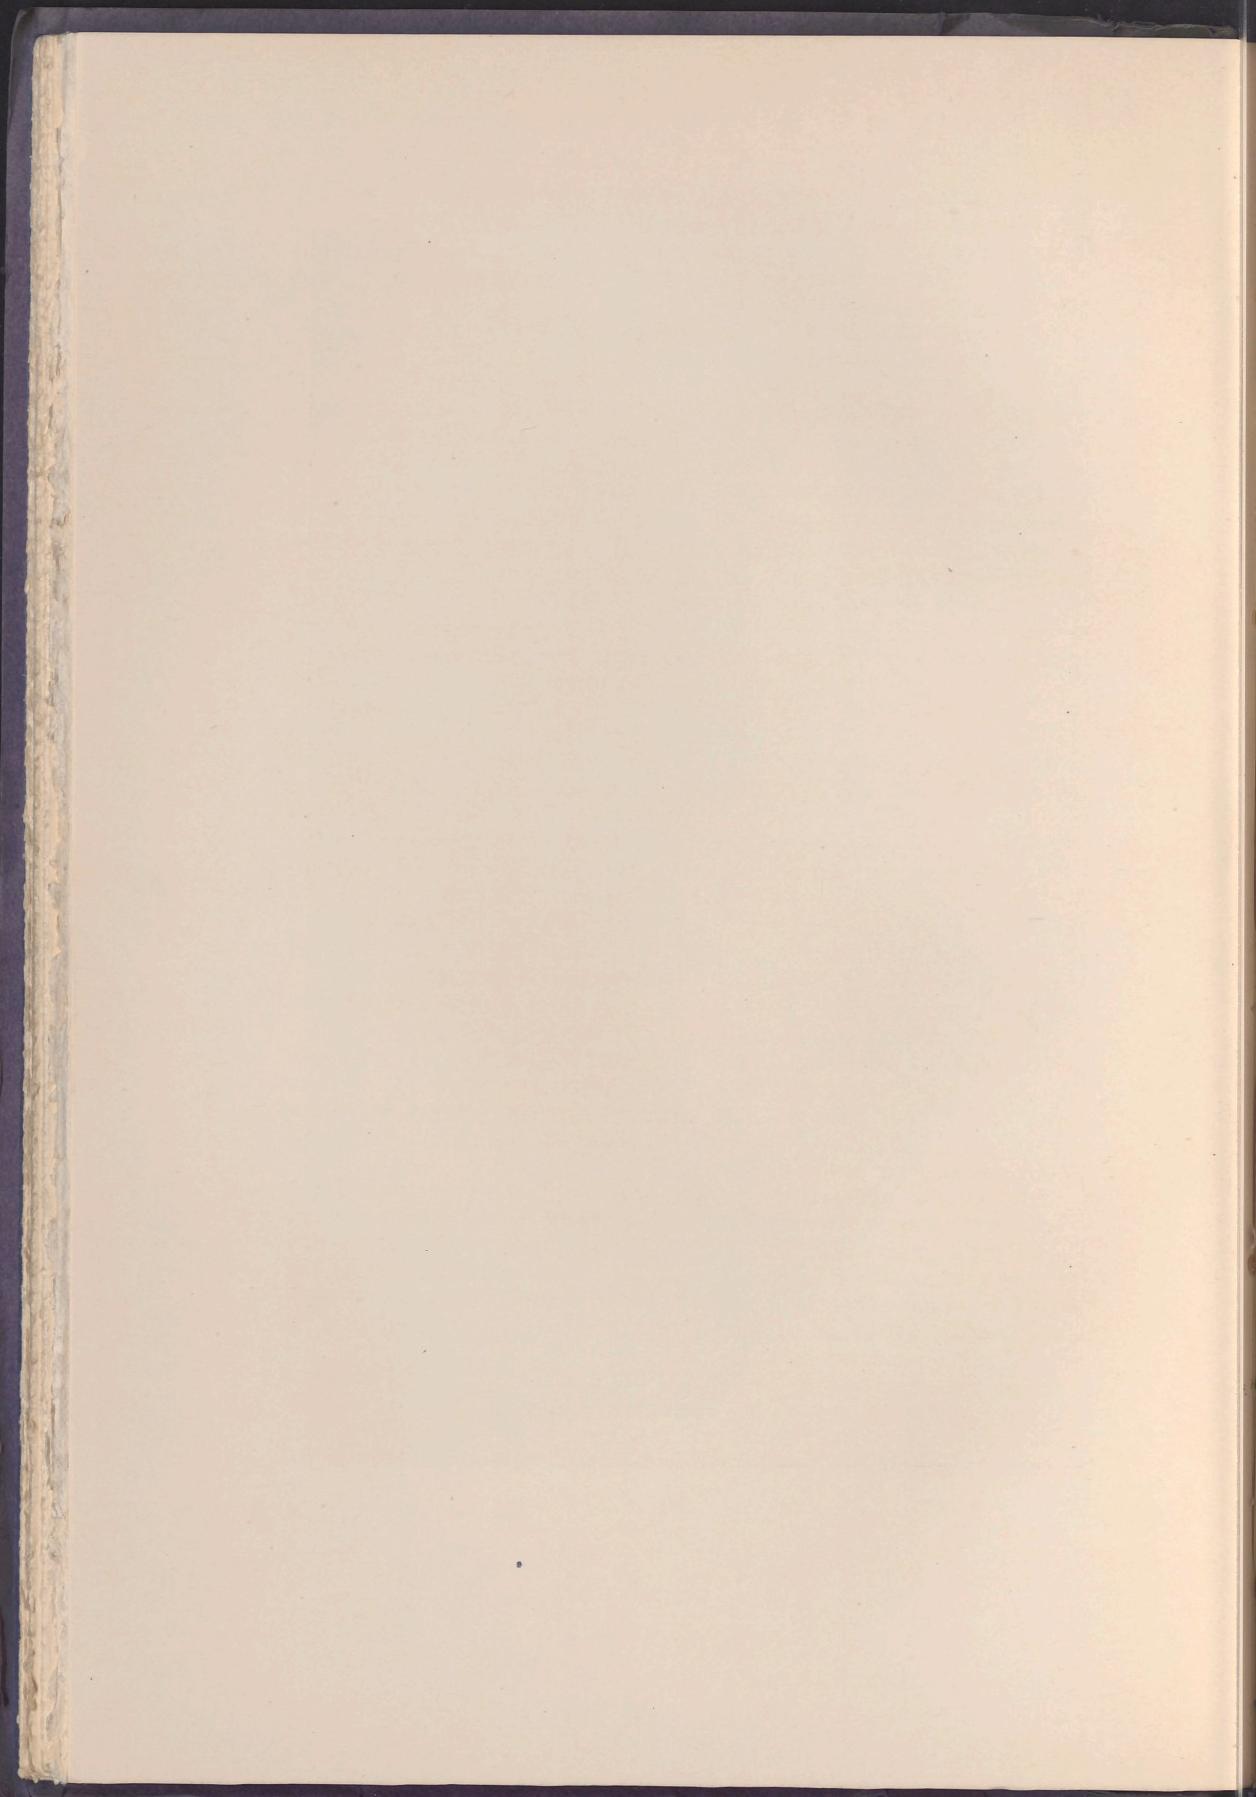

Finally, in 1903, the Bishop's administration of the mission came to an end, and later the property, on his recommendation, was deeded by Saint George's Parish to the City Mission Society. The balance of the amount received for the Pro-Cathedral Building Fund and unexpended—$4,289.36—was transferred to that Society for building improvements.

Choir School

After some earlier temporary arrangements, which included valued service rendered by choir boys from the Pro-Cathedral, the Cathedral Choir School was organized at first as a day-school in November, 1901, with the volunteer aid of Mr. Frank Hunter Potter, who was appointed the first Precentor with general supervision of the music. The Trustees adopted a resolution expressing their thanks to him for the management of the School without compensation. On Monday, January 13th, 1902, the choristers began to take part in the services. The Rev. Ernest Voorhis, Ph.D., was appointed as Head Master in the same year, and continued in that capacity until his resignation in 1912. Both as Head Master of the School and Canon Precentor he made an admirable record of faithfulness and efficiency. He was succeeded as Head Master by Mr. I. Mansur Beard. Meantime the title of Canon Precentor was discontinued. The present Organist, Mr. Miles Farrow, who succeeded Professor Hall in that capacity in 1909, is both Organist and Master of the Choristers. The School occupied quarters in the old building that was the first on the grounds to be called Synod House until the opening of the School's new and stately home on October 1st, 1913, with accommodations for forty choristers as residents, and twenty as day scholars.

The work of construction was begun in 1912, and the cornerstone was laid by Bishop Greer, January 11th, 1913. The new home was completed in the same year. It was erected by Mrs. J. Jarrett Blodgett in memory of her father, Mr. John Hinman Sherwood. In designing it the Architects, Mr. Walter Cook and Mr. Winthrop A. Welch, were above all desirous of obtaining an effect which would harmonize with the Cathedral itself and the other buildings already existing or to be built in connection with it, so that it would appear as part of a general group and not simply as an isolated unit.

The style adopted was the so-called English Collegiate Gothic, which seemed to be clearly indicated both by its surroundings and its use; and an effort was made to avoid any excessive formality. The two gables are by deliberate intention unsymmetrical, both in plan and in mass, the less important one being that next the Cathedral.

This element of picturesqueness was very much favored and indeed dictated by the site. On the street side, toward Morningside Drive, the building is set on the edge of what may be called a bluff, and gains very much from this, not only in interest and beauty, but also because all the service entrances, and indeed all of the entrances except the principal one, are immediately accessible from the street. On the opposite side, where the level of the ground is so much higher, a feeling for quietude of design has been sought, and the large and low terrace was introduced with this end in view.

In the interior of the building also, a great simplicity and sobriety has been sought for, in consideration of the fact that this is a boys' school and not primarily a place for great elaboration of ornament, however great the temptation to introduce it in certain rooms may have been. It is believed that in general a happy mean has been achieved, and that this simplicity has not been carried to the point of bareness or of dulness.

During the construction of the building a fund was raised for house furnishings, principally among members of the Diocesan Auxiliary to the Cathedral. The gifts reported by the Treasurer of this special fund, whose earnest spirit has for many years set a fine example of practical interest in the welfare of the School, in endowing a prize fund and in many other ways, are specified in connection with other financial statements herewith.

The generous action of friends of the Cathedral in providing so handsome a home for the Choir School, and then in completely furnishing it, was nobly crowned in May, 1914, by the timely and cheering gift of $501,000 from Commodore Frederick Gilbert Bourne for the endowment. He is an honorary member of the Cathedral Choir, and this large benefaction is not only a proof of his love for the Cathedral of which he is a Trustee, but also of his intelligent interest in the promotion of a high order of church music.

Music

It is understood, of course, that musical excellence is attained at this Cathedral, as elsewhere, not simply because organ keys respond to a master touch, and rare voices are fitted for the "concord of sweet sound," but also because the advantage of the right kind of training is never neglected. The choir now consists of twenty-three men—eight bassos, seven tenors and eight altos—and thirty-seven boys with treble voices.

Old Synod House

The principal part of the interior of Old Synod House having been remodelled to provide a temporary hall, the Diocesan Convention met there for the first time in the autumn of 1904. On that occasion His Grace, the Archbishop of Canterbury, the first representative of that See to visit this country, delivered a brief address, having previously celebrated the Holy Communion in the Cathedral Crypt, preparatory to the opening session of the Convention. The occasion was commemorated by the presentation to the Trustees of a bishop's chair and kneeling desk, which had been bought especially for the Archbishop's use in the Crypt with funds raised by the Archdeacon for the purpose. On the walls of this hall are portraits of the deceased Bishops of New York. The portrait of Bishop Horatio Potter was presented by his daughter, Miss Anna Potter; the other six portraits were gifts from Bishop H. C. Potter. A marble bust of the last named (Leopold Bracony, sculptor), presented by friends through the Archdeacon of New York, stands on a pedestal under his portrait. Nearby is the portrait of the late Mr. D. Willis James, one of the Cathedral's earliest benefactors, presented by his wife.

In the same hall are displayed nine old paintings and one picture on a panel in three parts, bequeathed by the Rev. Dr. Robert J. Nevin, presumably collected by him during his long rectorship of the American Church at Rome.

Arrangements have not yet been made for the transfer of these treasures to their permanent home.

No action has yet been taken for the removal of Old Synod House, which still serves many useful purposes.

Cathedral League

The Cathedral League was organized in 1902, with the following officers: President, Mr. Robert G. Hone; Vice-President, Mr. William Bispham; Treasurer, Mr. Henry W. Munroe; Secretary, Mr. Henry Lawrence Purdy. At the same time the following members were elected as the Executive Committee: Mr. George Zabriskie, Mr. Francis M. Bacon, Mr. Charles F. Hoffman, Mr. S. Nicholson Kane and Mr. William Foulke. The names of the present officers, including Mr. Henry L. Hobart, Secretary, appear on another page.

The League has for its object, the securing of funds by subscriptions for the erection and endowment of the Cathedral, and to promote and maintain a general interest in its establishment and maintenance. Any person interested in the erection of the Cathedral and in its support who shall subscribe one hundred dollars, is qualified for membership. The subscription is payable in not more than ten equal annual installments. The membership dues are one dollar, payable after election, and, thereafter annually, and no other charges are made. The League now numbers 597 members. The sum of $3,450, paid by the League for a pair of steel gates in the ambulatory, is not included in the report of funds transferred to the Cathedral Treasurer.

The venerated writer of the preceding article tells us that the Third Bishop of New York, Dr. Hobart, and Mr. Philip Hone, Mayor of the city, had a vision of a Cathedral for Washington Square. It is a happy thought that both these honored names in our diocesan and municipal history are well represented these days in the Church life of this community. A relative of Bishop Hobart's is Secretary, and the grandson of Mayor Hone is President of the Cathedral League which is helping to move that old-time vision up from Washington Square, where fortunately it failed to take root, past the other proposed site near the south end of Central Park, and set it in stone on Morningside Heights where it belongs.

Diocesan Auxiliary

The Diocesan Committee for the Extension of Cathedral and Pro-Cathedral Work in the City of New York has already been mentioned, together with the names of the officers, in connection with the Pro-Cathedral. In 1904, it was reorganized as the Diocesan Committee for the Work of the Cathedral of Saint John the Divine, with the following officers: President, the Bishop; First Vice-President, Mrs. William Chandler Casey; Second Vice-President, Mrs. James Herman Aldrich; Third Vice-President, Mrs. Frederick B. Van Kleeck; Treasurer, Miss Julia G. McAllister; Secretary, Miss Caroline Bunker.

Meantime a Society had been formed to aid the Cathedral League. Its name was the Woman's Auxiliary to the Cathedral League of the Diocese of New York. On January 12th, 1906, these two Societies were combined in one and the latter name was retained. Officers: President, Mrs. Richard Irvin; First Vice-President, Mrs. Charles F. Hoffman; Second Vice-President, Mrs. Harry P. Nichols; Financial Secretary, Miss Julia G. McAllister. On December 27th, 1907, this Auxiliary separated from the Cathedral League and adopted its present name—the Diocesan Auxiliary to the Cathedral Church of Saint John the Divine. Officers: President, Mrs. Henry Whitney Munroe; Vice-Presidents, Mrs. Richard Irvin, Miss Amy Townsend and Mrs. James Herman Aldrich; Secretary, Mrs. Charles Frederick Hoffman; Treasurer, Mrs. William M. V. Hoffman.

Its new constitution was adopted February 6th, 1908. Later, the Society was incorporated. It aims to aid the Building and Maintenance funds, and to be helpful in the various departments of the Cathedral's work. Its permanent funds are: Founder's, Life Membership, Building; Special Building, Maintenance or Endowment, Flower and William Aspinwall Hadden Prize Fund. Its work for the Building Fund includes the charge of Cathedral boxes distributed among churches and chapels of the Diocese for offerings for that object. Its Flower Fund is made up of memorial endowments for flowers for the altar. Under its direction suitable provision is made for choir vestments.

Through its delegates from all parts of the Diocese, it is giving Sunday School children an opportunity to contribute to the fund for the Baptismal Font. For some years it has befriended Saint Ambrose Italian Mission in "Little Italy" with substantial appropriations in money. Under its auspices also is maintained, through Mrs. Haley Fiske, Chairman of its Missionary Committee, a philanthropic work in the interest of Saint John's Club for colored boys at 39 West 131st Street, and also in the interest of colored working girls at their home at 132 West 131st Street, which is a centre of settlement work for the neighborhood. The annual dues are one dollar. The list of members includes the following: Founder, on payment of $100.00; life member, on payment of $25.00; honorary member, on payment of $1,000.00 or more for the Building Fund. Included in its membership are eight founders, one hundred and forty-one life members; seven hundred and eighty-one annual members; four honorary members, and two hundred and twenty-eight delegates from one hundred and fourteen parishes.

Fresh Air Association

The Fresh Air Association of the Cathedral began its work of mercy in 1891. Later it was incorporated as the Pro-Cathedral Fresh Air Association. It was incorporated in 1905, as the Fresh Air Association of the Cathedral, to promote the physical and spiritual welfare of the poor in the City of New York; to care for the sick, the young, the aged and disabled; to minister to the needs of mothers and children during the hot summer months, and generally to advance charitable and benevolent objects. It provides every summer about a fortnight's outing at its home on a wooded hillside of thirty acres at Tomkins Cove on the west bank of the Hudson for over five hundred women, children and babies, representing several city parishes and missions. This shelter is called the House of Saint John the Divine. It was opened with a service of benediction on June 26th, 1906, having been erected by Mrs. James Herman Aldrich to replace the old building that had stood on the same spot for many years.

A well equipped boy's camp is also maintained during the summer months.

The large Chapel of Saint John the Divine, built by the Association on its grounds, and its rectory, are used as a parish church and parish house by the Archdeaconry of Orange.

The Bishop Potter memorial nurse, who is employed by the Association, visits and cares for such of the beneficiaries in this city as may require her services when the house at Tomkins Cove is closed.

The Cathedral sewing class, also organized by this Association, provides all the clothes worn by the children at the House during the summer.

Laymen's Club

The Laymen's Club was founded in 1908 by Mr. Davidge, now of the Executive Committee of the Cathedral League. The objects of the Club are to promote social fellowship, but chiefly to help the Cathedral's spiritual and material progress. It numbers forty-five active members.

It is always pleasant to meet courtesy in the house of prayer as well as in other places. It is pleasant to anyone who comes to the Cathedral, especially for the first time, to find an attentive usher at the door. The laymen who render this voluntary service so acceptably are Messrs. Davidge, Silliman, Nesbitt, Lunn, Bonsall, Elkin, Sullivan, Buhler, True, Garinger, Dietz, Lockwood, Stedman, Zachry, Hall, Nelms, Heinsohn, Hazard, Broadbent and Stagg, but they are not all required to be on duty at the same time.

New Synod House

When, in 1910, the General Convention in session at Richmond selected New York as the place for the triennial meeting in 1913, lively interest among the authorities of the Diocese of New York was awakened to the importance of providing suitable accommodations for the House of Deputies. This choice of the metropolis as the next place of meeting hastened the building of the new Synod House in the Cathedral Close, for soon after the Committee on Construction had been appointed, Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan and Mr. W. Bayard Cutting, who had for many years been associated with each other as Deputies from this Diocese to the General Convention, generously offered to share between themselves the entire cost of the building. Work was accordingly begun and carried on without delay; the corner-stone was laid August 15th, 1912, and the Architects, Messrs. Cram, Goodhue and Ferguson, were able to have everything in readiness for the meeting of the House of Deputies at the appointed time.

This building is based very exactly on the work of the purest period in France, that is, the thirteenth century, as this is shown in such buildings as the Salle Synodal of Sens and Mont Saint Michel. For the exterior the design is of the greatest simplicity, depending largely on its proportions and light and shade for its effect, the idea of the Architects being that ultimately the buildings along Amsterdam Avenue, Cathedral Parkway and Morningside Drive should form a great supporting and containing wall, within which the Cathedral should rise from its protected space of grass and trees. The sculptured details of the Synod House have been given particular attention, and the tympanum and statues of the west door, all of which were executed by Messrs. John Evans and Company, of Boston, are very admirable examples of a revived type of architectural sculpture. Ultimately the arms of all the dioceses comprised within the State of New York will be shown on the now uncarved shields around the upper portion of the building, and this will include the seal of the Diocese of New York which was finally adopted by the Bishop at its last Convention in November, 1915.

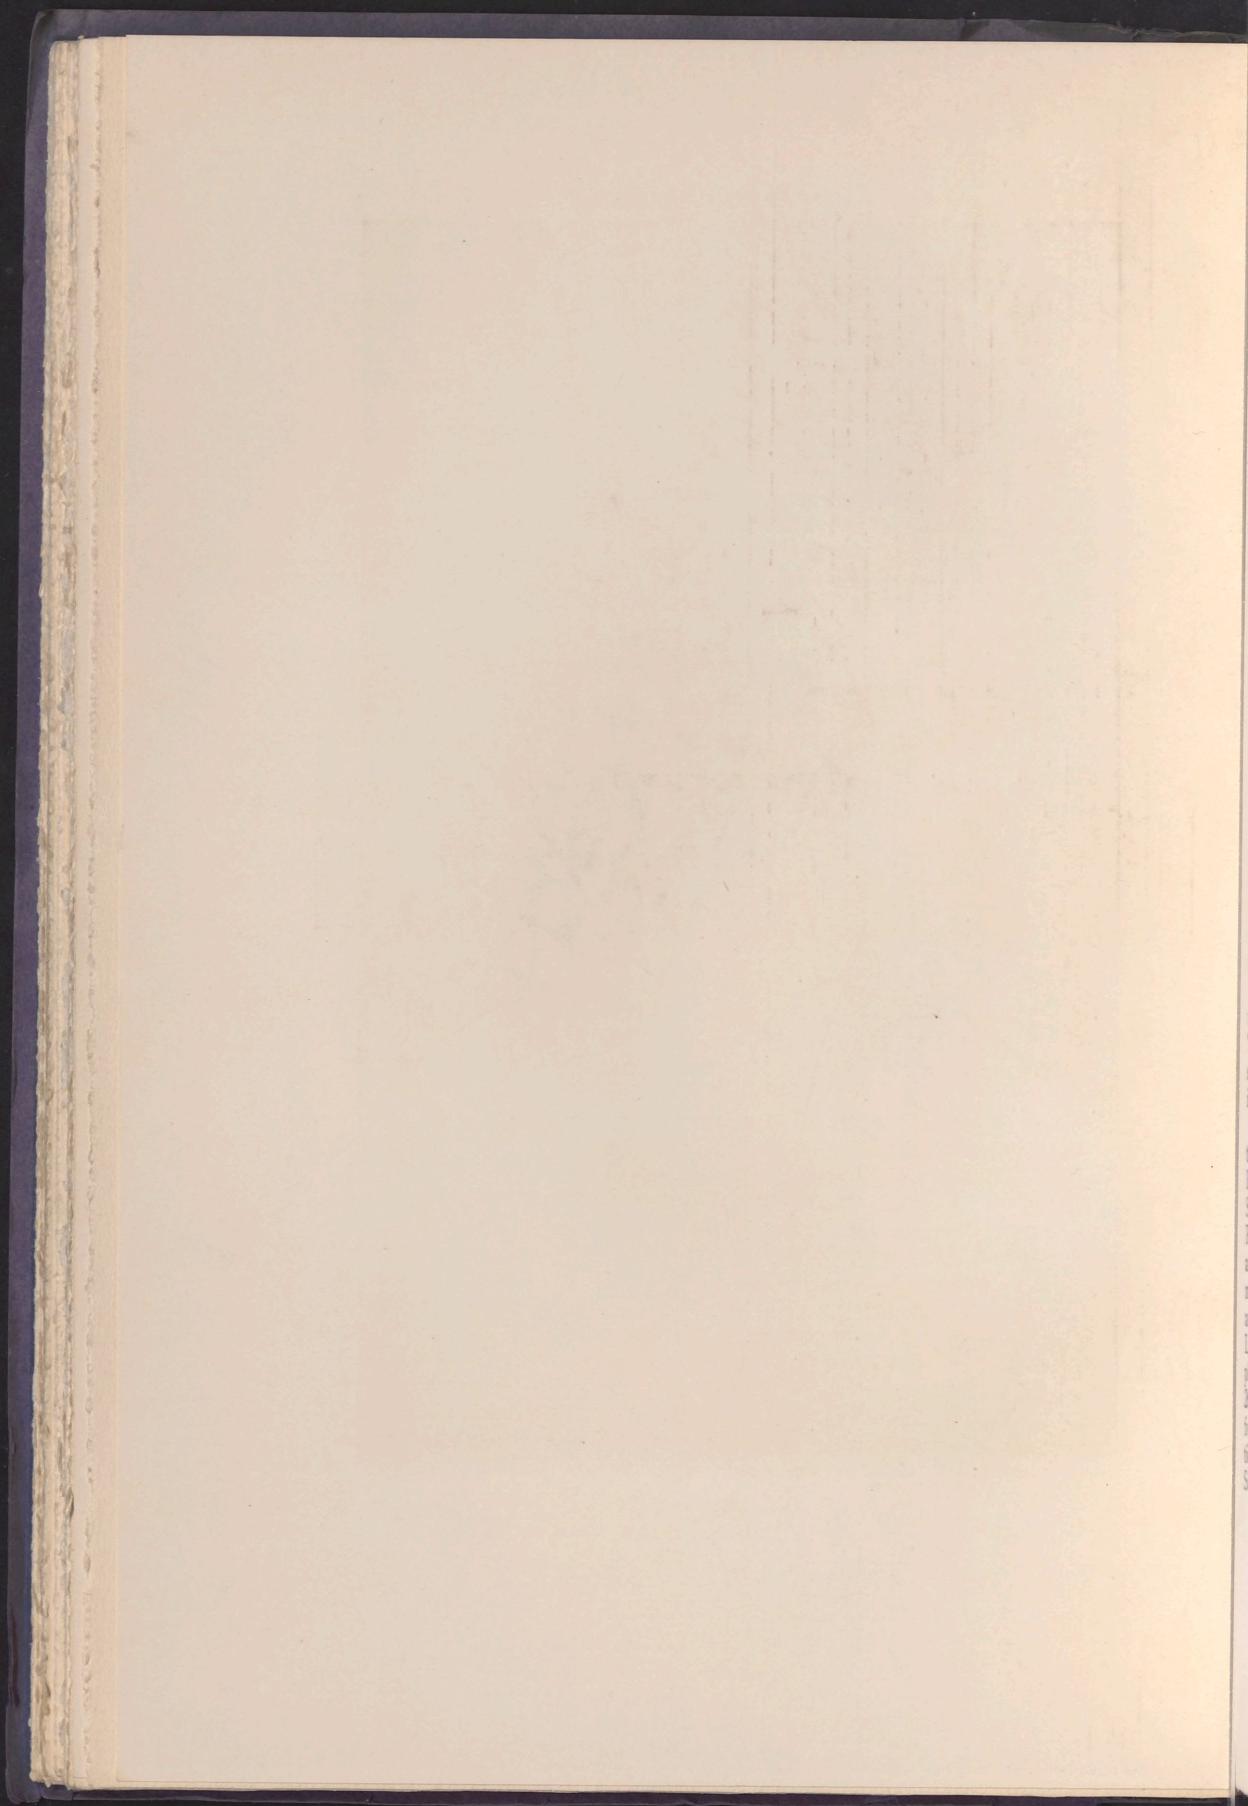

The interior of the Synod Hall has been developed on somewhat later architectural lines, its huge trussed roof showing the color treatment invariably used in the Middle Ages, and its wood panelling being worked out in a very rich type of fifteenth century design. The grisaille glass filling all the windows, made by Mr. Charles J. Connick, of Boston, deserves especial commendation for its dignity and silvery beauty. All the wood panelling of the interior was done by Messrs. William F. Ross and Company, of Cambridge.

The undercroft is a very successful attempt to demonstrate that a basement need not be necessarily an ugly or unmonumental place. It follows the lines of the early transitional construction of France and is a vast space, vaulted throughout, with walls and ceiling left white and a floor of dull red tiles. This building also contains complete accommodations for the offices of the Bishop, the Suffragan Bishop and others.

This Synod House is certainly one of the most important of the group of buildings. Apart from its utility as administration headquarters, and as a place for the Diocesan Convention and other ecclesiastical assemblies, its hall is a people's forum where men of different creeds and of no creed at all can come together and get in touch with helpful influences which concern their own welfare and that of their fellow citizens. It is, therefore, not only a beautiful gate of the temple, but an auxiliary of Social Service and Civic Righteousness, even for many who have not yet found their way to any religious fellowship.

NEW SYNOD HOUSE

Bishop's House

The Bishop's House, which special gifts, made through Bishop Greer, and an appropriation from the Episcopal Fund, have made possible, was not slow to follow Synod House to completion under the oversight of the same Architects, who describe it as later in type than Synod House, though still French in its general effect, with very high roofs of the château type, great chimney stacks and dormers, and a carefully studied windowing that leaves large spaces of unbroken wall, while quite adequately lighting all the interior apartments. While Synod House is built of an extremely beautiful warm colored stone from West Virginia, the Bishop's House is of a soft gray stone that gives it a certain individual distinction and isolates it from the more formal and monumental portions of the group. Every effort has been made to combine a domestic quality with that monumental element that is necessary in buildings of this nature, the whole being worked out on the lines of the utmost simplicity and even austerity. The private chapel for the Bishop still remains to be constructed, and at present a raw hole exists above the great open porch.

Deanery

Closely associated with the Bishop's House, and forming a part of the same architectural composition, is the Deanery (designed by the same Architects), presented by Mrs. Helen Slade Ogilvie in memory of her husband, Clinton Ogilvie (1838-1900). The style is the same, that is, a modified treatment of the French château type, though adapted in every respect to American climatic and social conditions. The material also is identical. Here the formal and official quality which is appropriate in the Bishop's House is done away with, and the work is more directly domestic in character, with many gables, mullioned windows, and a special accent in the form of a delicately designed octagonal turret in the western angle of the south front. There is in the interior a long hall or "gallery" on the ground floor with the Dean's library at the west, the dining-room at the east, and a reception-room, anteroom, stairway and vestibule between them on the southerly side.

At present the architectural composition of the two buildings is incomplete, as the Bishop's private chapel over the great vaulted porch that separates his residence from the Deanery, still awaits a donor. When this chapel is completed, with its traceried window and rich gable, it will tie the two structures together into a harmonious whole.

House for Canons

A plan for the erection of a building to provide apartments for the use of Canons of the Cathedral is under consideration, and a fund for the purpose has already been started.

Deaconess School

The New York Training School for Deaconesses was founded in 1890 by the Rev. William Reed Huntington, D.D. Bishop Greer is the President, and Dean Grosvenor the Warden. Deaconess Knapp is the Dean of the School. It occupies a site in the Cathedral Close by permission of the Trustees, given in 1899, but it is an independent corporation. Its handsome building, called Saint Faith's House, designed by Messrs. Heins and LaFarge, and finished in 1912, was erected in memory of Julia Wheeler Tiffany with funds bequeathed for the purpose by her husband, the Rev. Dr. Charles Comfort Tiffany, the third Archdeacon of New York. The Deaconesses of the household have the care of the Communion silver and altar linen of the Cathedral.

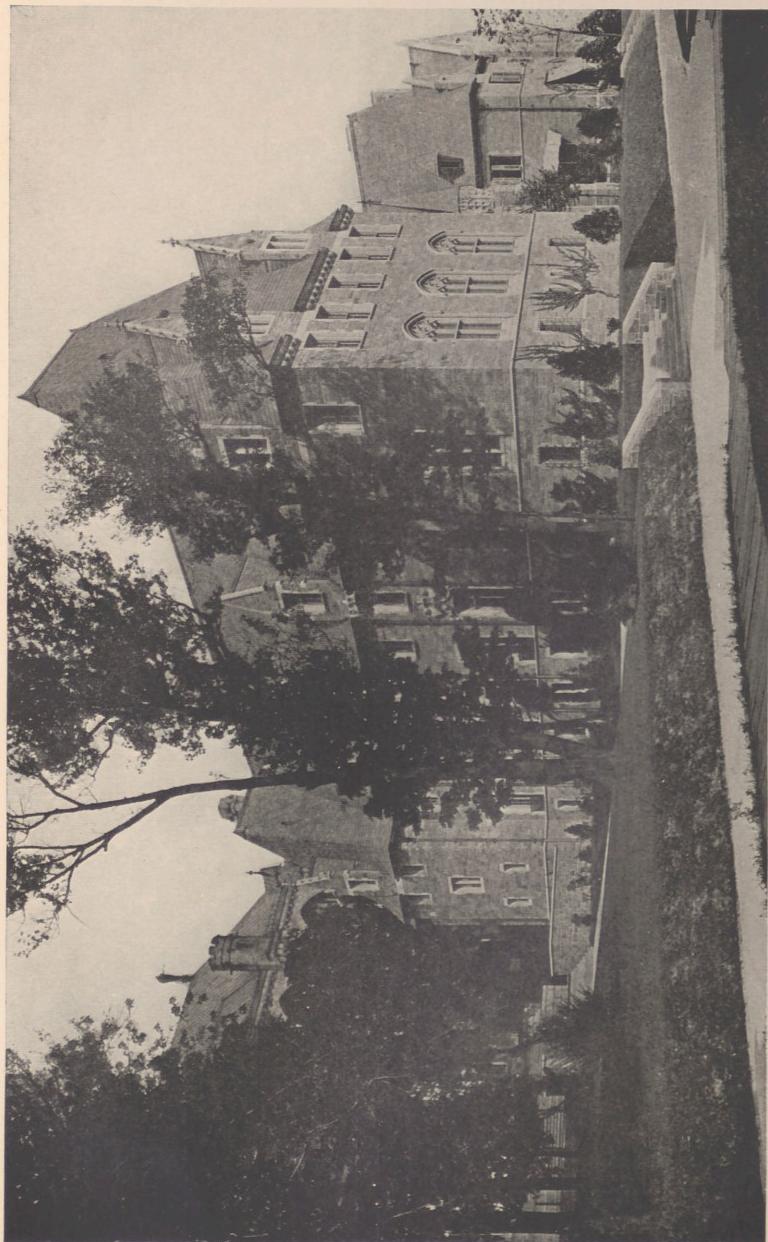

Open-Air Pulpit

The open-air pulpit, designed by Messrs. Howells and Stokes, Architects, and presented by Miss Olivia E. Phelps Stokes in memory of her sister, Caroline Phelps Stokes, is described as Gothic, of Daytona stone, resting on a base formed of three large steps intended to be used as seats; covered by groined vaulting, and surmounted by an open spire filled with tracery and rising to a height of forty feet. The four sides of the pulpit are ornamented with the conventional signs of the Evangelists, that to the east being made of beaten bronze and forming a gate at the head of the short flight of steps which lead from the ground to the floor of the pulpit. The gift of this beautiful pulpit was prompted by the outdoor services held on the Cathedral grounds at five o'clock on Sunday afternoons for some summers (beginning July 9th, 1905) before the opening of the Choir and Crossing, and the donor's generous thought was renewed by seeing the open-air pulpit that is attached to the Cathedral Church of Perugia.

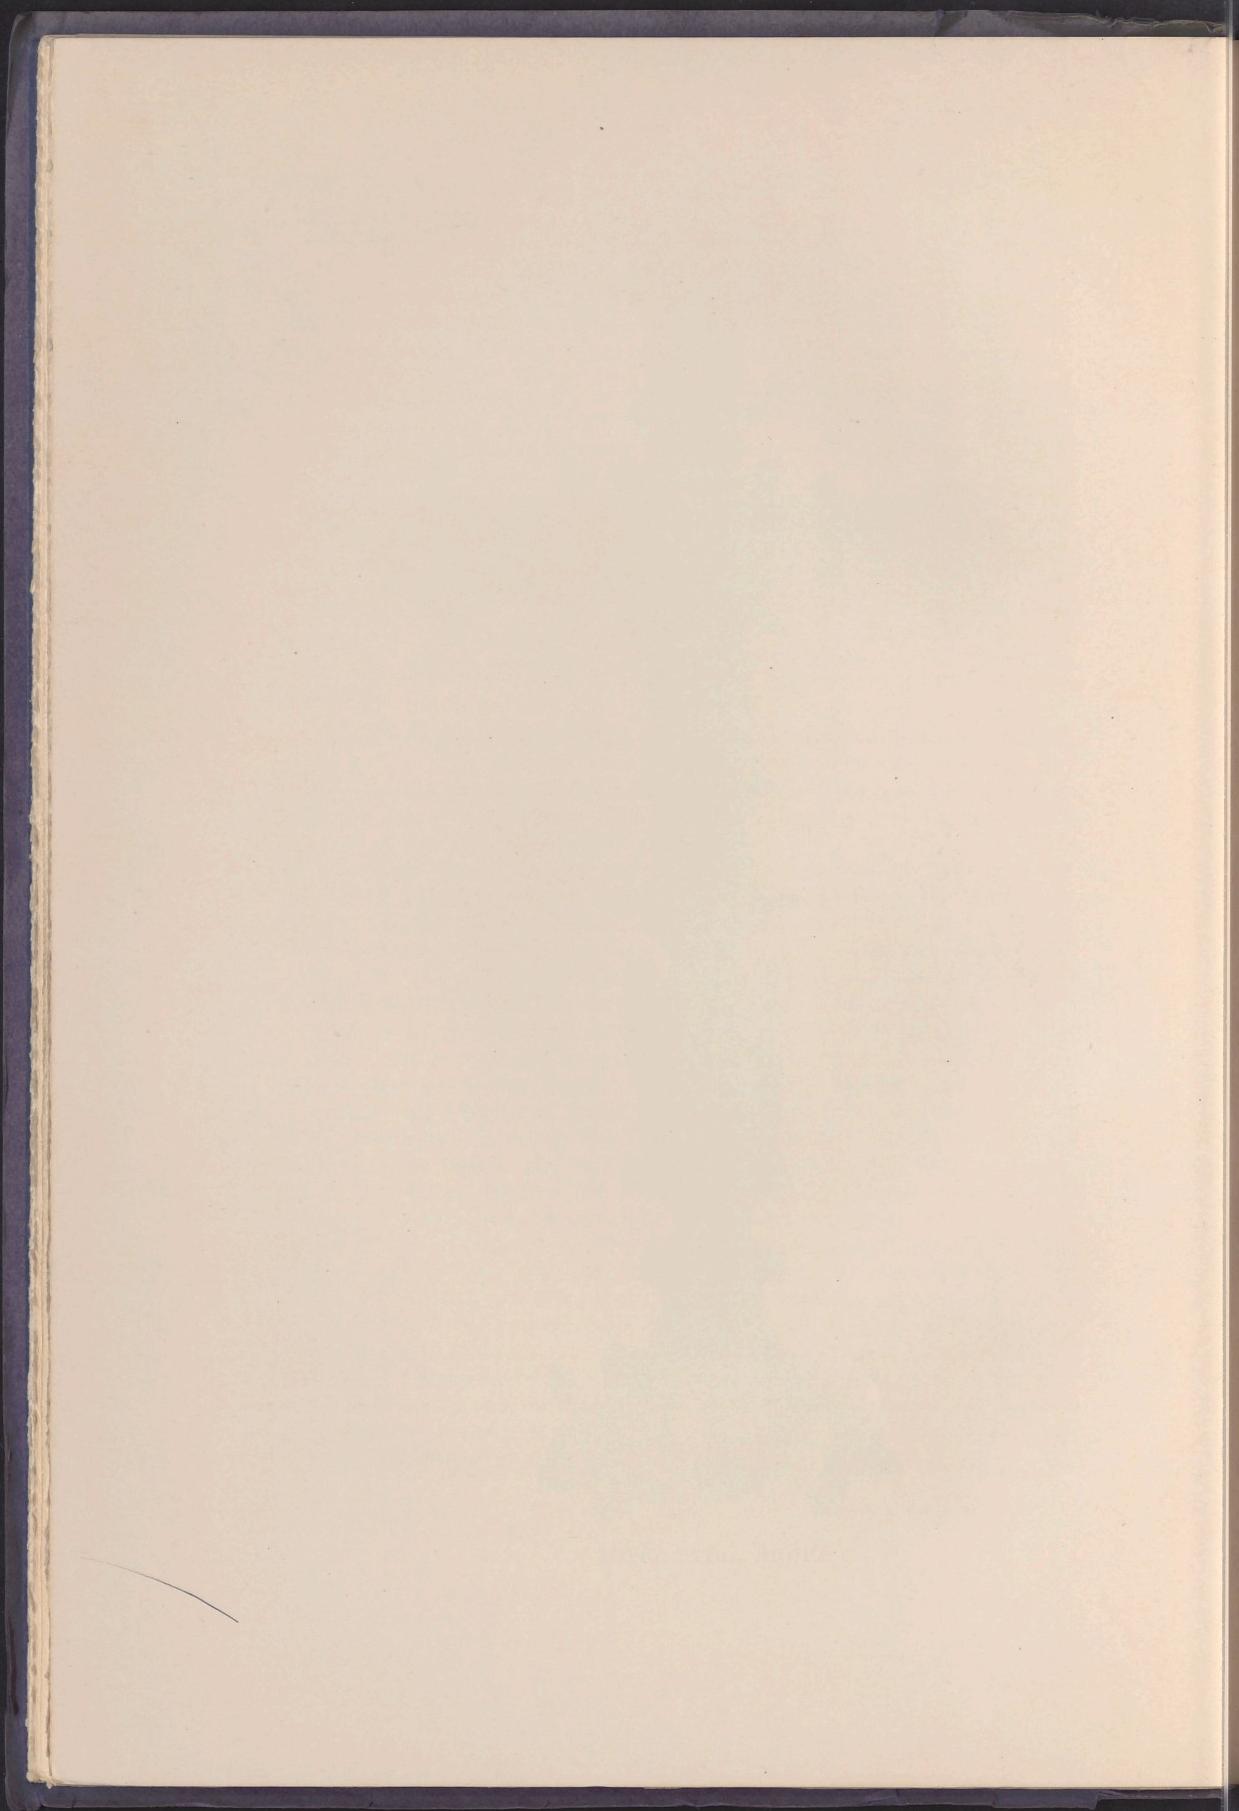

Cathedral Corporation

The Right Rev. Dr. Greer was elected as Trustee in 1891, before his elevation to the Episcopate. He was consecrated in Saint Bartholomew's Church, New York, on January 26th, 1904, after serving that parish as its Rector for sixteen years. Then as Bishop Coadjutor he was ex officio a member of the Board until July 21st, 1908. Since that date, as the Diocesan, he has been President of the Cathedral Corporation.

The original Constitution and Statutes providing for a Board consisting of the Bishop of the Diocese, President ex officio, the Bishop Coadjutor, if there be one, and sixteen other Trustees, eight clergymen and eight laymen, began to be in force on Saint John's Day, 1904. Under the new Constitution which went into effect nine years later, the Corporation became an open one. It authorizes the appointment of twenty-four Trustees, besides the Bishop, that is, twelve clergymen and twelve laymen, although there are now only eight clergymen, besides the Bishop, and twelve laymen, on the Board. The Bishop nominates two clergymen to serve for six years. Each year the Diocesan Convention nominates one clergyman and two laymen for six years. Without including the Cathedral staff, there are six classes of Trustees, each consisting of one clergyman and two laymen, to hold office for six years. The provision for three Canons Residentiary to serve also on the Board of Trustees has not yet been carried into effect.

The first Dean, the Very Rev. Dr. Grosvenor, was elected on May 3d, 1911. He had already served ten years as a Trustee. He was also a member of the Building Committee. For many years he had been Rector of the Church of the Incarnation, New York. During the period preceding the Dean's election, the Archdeacon of New York had, under the Bishop, executive control of the affairs of the Cathedral, in accordance with the original Constitution and Statutes.

The first to be appointed Dean's Vicar was the Rev. Francis K. Little, who served on the staff from 1912 to 1914. He was succeeded by the Rev. E. Briggs Nash.

Secretary

Of the sixteen members of the original Board only two are now living—the Rev. Dr. Philander K. Cady, Professor-emeritus of the General Theological Seminary, who resigned as Trustee in 1907, and Mr. George Macculloch Miller, who still holds and adorns the office of Secretary to which he was elected at the first meeting for organization in 1873.

What an asset it is to the Cathedral to have such a model Secretary! It means, first of all, the reign of order among the archives. They are piled like Ossa on Pelion, but the system of indexing is so perfect that anything can be found in a minute or two, whether it is at the top or bottom of the pile.

As Saint Luke's is close by, it does not seem like going out of the way to mention the fact that Mr. Miller has served that great Hospital during an unbroken period of forty-six years, first as Secretary from 1869 to 1890, and since October 27th, 1890, as President. The old site was on the west side of Fifth Avenue, and extended from 54th Street to 55th Street. The corner-stone of new Saint Luke's was laid on May 6th, 1893, being the thirty-ninth anniversary of the laying of the corner-stone of the first Saint Luke's Hospital. The transfer of the household to the first completed section of the group of new buildings was made on January 26th, 1896. From the beginning of this forward movement, therefore, it was Mr. Miller's privilege to be at the head of this institution which is so worthy to bear the name of the Evangelist whom Saint Paul calls "the beloved physician."

In view of the relation of the Cathedral to the Diocese, this narrative may well include also the following resolution adopted by the Diocesan Convention in November, 1915:

"Resolved, That this Convention directs an entry to be made upon its minutes that at this time George Macculloch Miller, Esquire, completes forty-one years of continuous service as a member of the Standing Committee of the Diocese of New York. During this time he has served the Church both in the Standing Committee and in many other responsible positions with constant devotion, with unwearied zeal, and with conspicuous wisdom. The purity of his character, and the goodness of his life, his constancy in the faith of Christ and his readiness to labor for Him, have won the respect and the affection of the clergy and the laity of this Diocese. On behalf of the Diocese this Convention records its gratitude to Mr. Miller for his long and faithful services."

O Time, keep on crowning him with years for more such noble service!

Treasurers

Such a building enterprise as this calls for diversities of gifts, and prominent among them is a wise business integrity. The Treasurers of the Cathedral have all been eminently qualified in every way for their responsible office. Colonel Richard Tylden Auchmuty, the first to be chosen, was constrained to resign in 1887, very soon after his election, on account of the pressure of other work, but he remained on the Board until his death six years later. Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan served as Treasurer twelve years. Mr. Samuel D. Babcock, elected in 1899 to succeed Mr. Morgan, continued on duty until his death in 1902. The present able Treasurer, Mr. Charles F. Hoffman, has been in office since 1902, and, like his predecessors, and also like the Secretary, has fulfilled his important duties as a labor of love.

In 1899, the Union Trust Company was appointed Assistant Treasurer, in harmony with a resolution adopted by the Diocesan Convention of the preceding year, in reference to the care of Church funds.

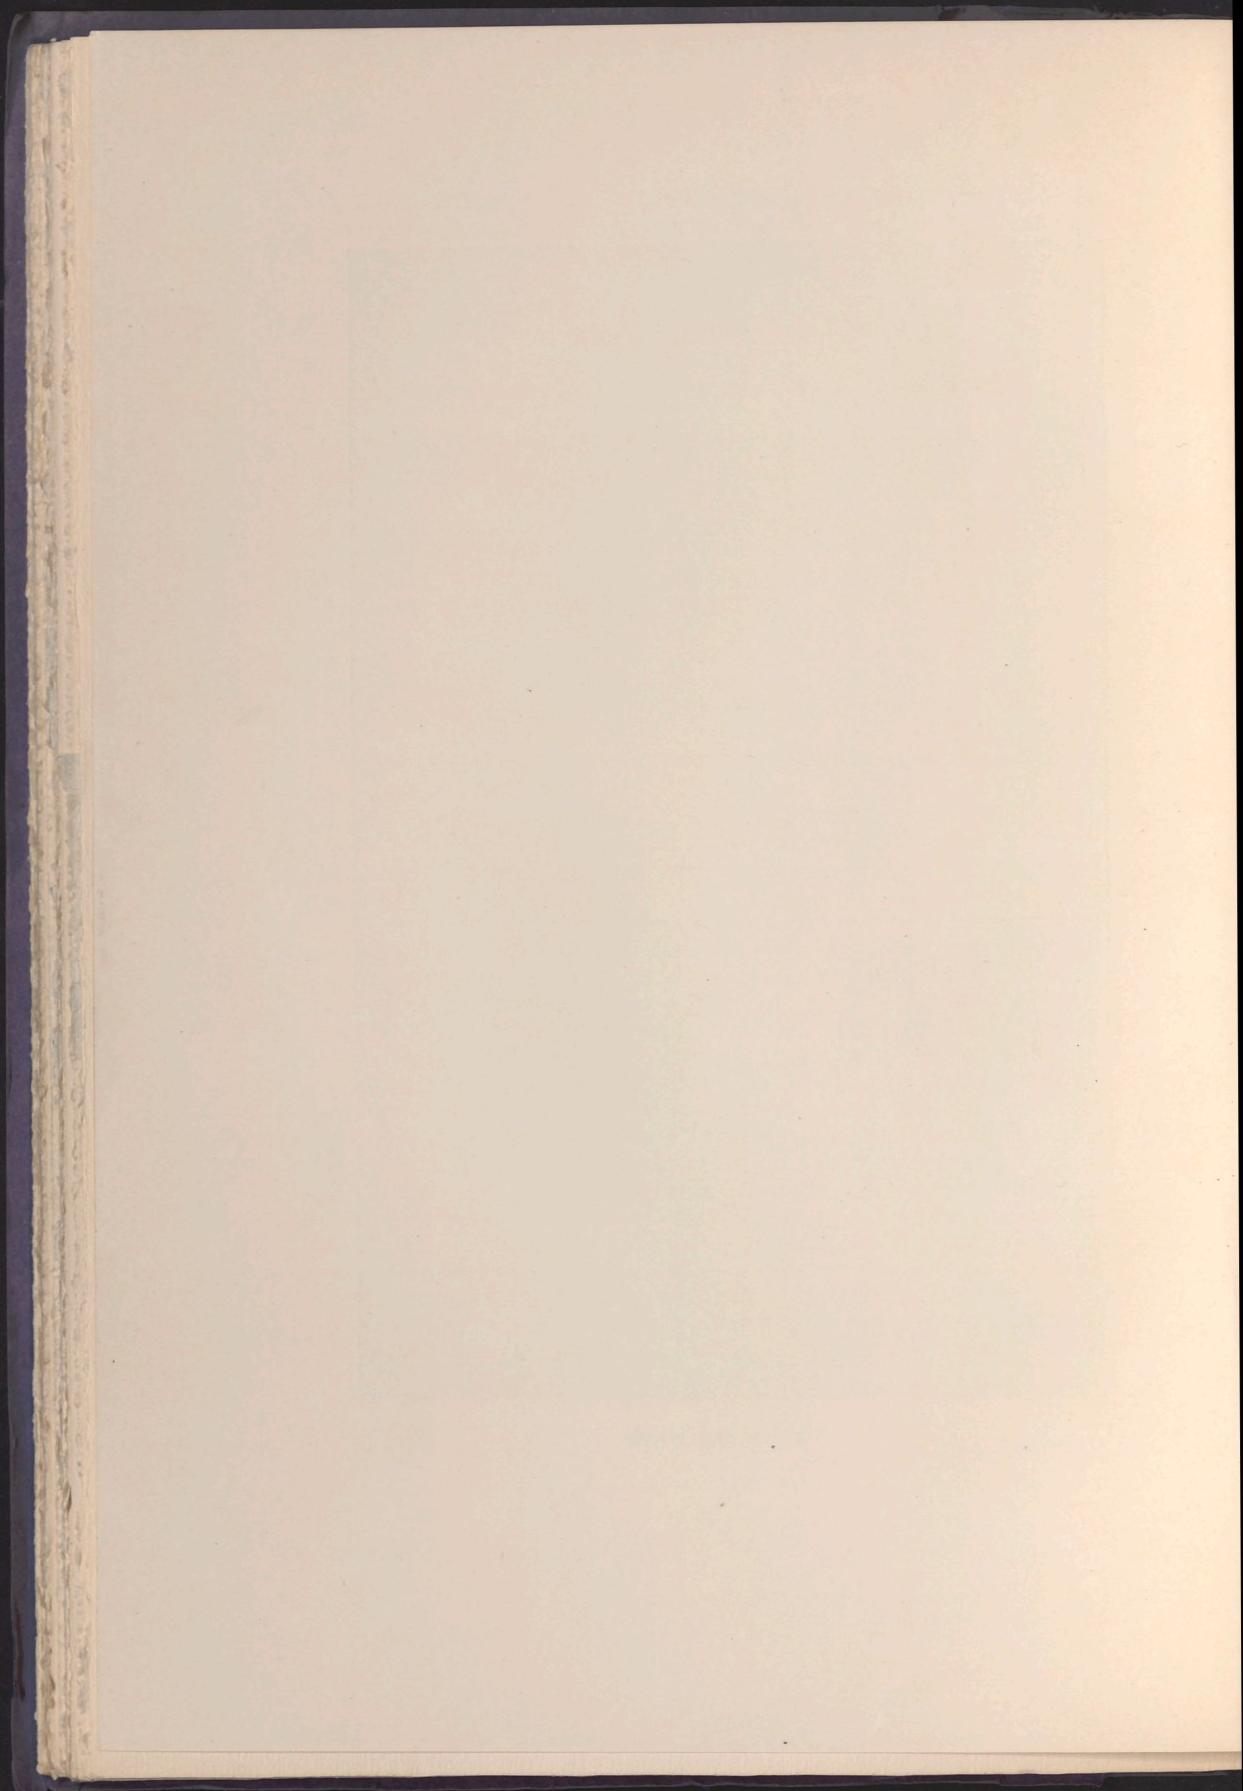

Tribute to Mr. Nash

In 1898, on the death of Stephen P. Nash, LL.D., the Board adopted a Minute, presented by Bishop Potter, the Rev. Dr. Morgan Dix and Mr. George Macculloch Miller, expressing their appreciation of his conspicuous service to the Church, and especially to the work of the Cathedral to which "from its earliest conception he gave his best gifts and his steadfast sympathy."

Some months later, in accordance with a wish expressed by Mr. Nash before his death, his account, with that of his firm, amounting to $5,179.04 for legal services and disbursements during a period of some years, was receipted and presented to the Trustees, as a gift to the Cathedral, and the Trustees thereupon adopted the following resolution:

"Resolved, That the Secretary communicate to Mr. John McLean Nash their sincere thanks for this generous gift of his father, himself and his firm, with the assurance that the Trustees are glad to avail themselves of this opportunity for a renewed expression of their affectionate and enduring regard for their late associate and counsel."

Annual Meeting and Fiscal Year

The annual meeting is held on Saint John the Evangelist's Day, but in case that date falls on Sunday, then on the day following. The fiscal year begins on December 1st.

Seal

The seal of the Corporation was adopted in 1901. It is described as follows: The true Vesica shape or pointed oval formed by the intersection of two circles, each of which passes through the other. Tierce in pairlie reversed. In dexter quarter the shield of the arms of the City of New York. Argent four sails of a windmill placed in saltire; between the ends of chief and base, a beaver couchant; at fess, dexter and sinister, a barrel of flour all proper. 2nd azure, the shield of the arms of the State of New York; in a landscape, the sun rising in splendor or, behind a range of mountains, the middle one the highest. In base a ship and sloop passing and about to meet on a river bordered below by a glassy shore, fringed with shoals all proper. 3rd azure, seven six pointed stars argent between as many candlesticks or. In place of a crest or conizance is seen the Episcopal mitre all proper.

The word "Divine" in the title given to Saint John by the translator of the Book of the Revelation, being a substantive and not an adjective in this connection, means, of course, Theologian, and is so indicated by the word "Theologus" in the name of the Cathedral rendered in Latin on the seal

Endowment Fund

With wise forethought the Corporation included the following provisions in Statute 1 of the Constitution and Statutes of 1904:

I. That the moneys which shall be derived from the Edson and Coles estates be forever set apart as an Endowment Fund of the Cathedral, the income only thereof to be available for the purposes of the Corporation.

II. That, when the land is paid for in full, all sums not otherwise specifically designated, shall thereafter be expended upon the construction of the Cathedral until the amount so expended equals the amount of the Endowment Fund as the said Fund is, or shall be, created by bequests from the Edson and Coles estates.

III. That when the sum expended upon the construction shall equal the amount of the Endowment Fund, as above described, the Trustees shall thereafter, out of all undesignated sums however received, by gift or bequest, add to the Endowment Fund a dollar for every dollar expended upon construction, until the Endowment Fund shall reach the sum of three millions of dollars.

Treasurer's Summary

As shown by the financial statement, the sum of $5,155,355.02, received since June 1st, 1887, has been apportioned as follows:

For Building Funds	$3,874,237.16
For Endowment and Maintenance Funds...	1,281,117.86

In addition, however, to these funds which have been paid into the treasury, it is estimated that about $1,675,000 has been expended by donors, with the permission of the Trustees, for the construction of six of the Chapels of Tongues and two auxiliary buildings, without passing through the Treasurer's hands.

Retrospect and Prospect

It has been fortunate for the Cathedral that it has had the benefit of Bishop Greer's leadership for more than seven years to press forward the work which he found unfinished when he became the President of the Board of Trustees, for we all know that difficulties are accustomed to give way before his masterful purpose. It has also been fortunate that Dean Grosvenor's skill and zeal have so well qualified him to succeed the gifted Dr. Huntington as Chairman of the Committee on the Fabric.

For all that has been done, and for the faith and perseverance with which it has been done, we may well thank God and take courage. And now it is time to invoke again the spirit of the same kind of service for a further task. The contract made with the Architects for the building of the Nave was signed by the Bishop on May 5th, 1915; the working plans and specifications are completed; estimates of cost are about to be invited; the work will soon be begun, and it can all be done in five years if funds are available. Any contribution, however small, will be gratefully welcomed. Donors who are minded to favor this important Building Fund with large gifts will have their names enrolled in any one of the following lists of The Book of Remembrance and in any one of the following—to be suitably inscribed—divisions of the Nave on subscribing any one of the amounts indicated, viz.:

OPEN-AIR PULPIT

Founders, $100,000; Benefactors, $50,000; Patrons, $10,000. It is a notable fact that to memorial offerings is chiefly due the noble and imposing work of construction which the Cathedral now represents. In the present plan for the building of the Nave, especially in connection with the three divisions above indicated,—Founders, Benefactors and Patrons—opportunities are now offered for further gifts of this kind. Surely every one in the Diocese who has a loyal interest in the growth of the Church's influence, especially in this community of teeming opportunities, will be glad to make some offering, whether large or small, for the rising walls of the Cathedral's larger usefulness, even if not now prepared to add to the number of memorials which already form so large and sacred a part of the fabric and its furnishings.

No one needs to be told that this is the People's Cathedral. It could, of course, be no less as the cathedra, or seat, of the Bishop whose episcopate is the focus of ministries that have no narrower bounds than those of the Diocese. The children from many homes who bask in the sunshine or refresh themselves in the summer shade on its broad lawn are no more free to come and go than the children of larger growth who gather together at the Cathedral itself. It ministers not alone to a neighborhood notable for its great university, hospitals for the sick, asylums for the aged, and abounding apartment houses, but to many people of other parts of the city who are as sheep having no shepherd. As it is not a parish if has no parishioners, and therefore no register of names, but those who come to its services are none the less made to feel at home whether known or unknown. It was something more than mere sentiment that prompted Bishop Greer not long ago to arrange with the Commissioner of Charities for a service at the Cathedral for wards of the City Home on Blackwell's Island, and to assure them on that occasion, as he had previously assured them, that this is their Cathedral. It is indeed a spiritual home for the homeless, as well as for their more fortunate brethren who care to make use of it.

It is the Stranger's Cathedral. Its congregations include many who are transient guests in the city. Some know the thrill of the Psalmist's words: "O God, wonderful art Thou in Thy holy places"; others are not yet of the household of faith; but to each and all of them the Cathedral's doors swing open on Welcome's hinges.

It is the Mission Cathedral. It is best described by this title of honor. As the administrative centre of the missionary activities of the Diocese it is its chief Mission, and it is set for a work of conspicuous value, although the scope of its usefulness has not yet been fully developed.

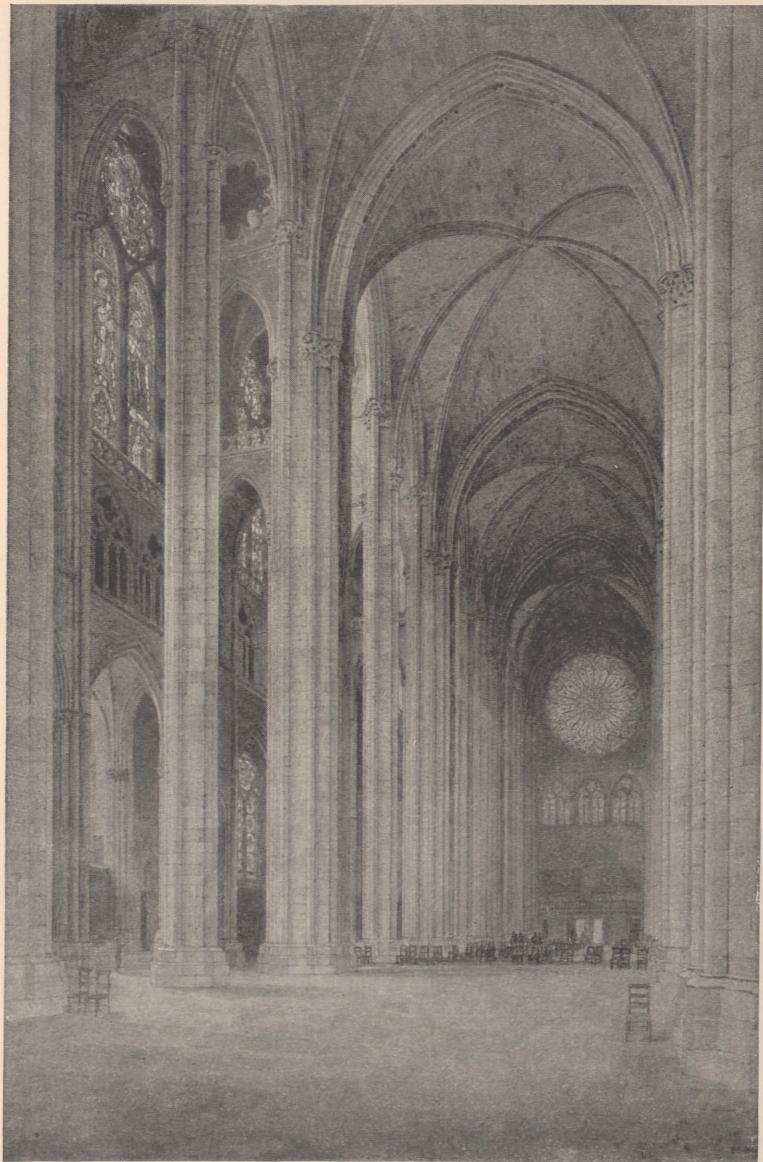

And surely no other cathedral anywhere has a finer site for so great a service. New York is no mean city, and its destiny has not been left out of the Almighty's plan. We love to think of it as a port of the world's commerce; a door of hope for immigrants of many kindreds and tongues; a seat of learning; a studio and treasure house of art; and as possessing many other attractions, but we have the right to believe that in the providence of God it is intended, most of all, to become more and more a bulwark of the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free. And on the heights of Manhattan in this Empire City of the New World, the Cathedral stands and will stand for centuries like a beacon on a darkling coast. It is not built in pride of bigness, nor merely in proof of the rich mine of faith from which it is quarried, in a city as full of the splendors of prosperity as a forest is full of trees. But it is built to the glory of God, in proportions in keeping with the magnitude of the opportunity which He has set like a standard on a hill to rally up to it the loyalty of His people.

Does the cost loom large? Well, if religion is only a decent respect for appearances, or only a system of ethics of human origin, or an occasional attitude of reverence before the mystery of the unseen and eternal, then the cost must indeed seem to mount too high. But when the eyes are anointed with wisdom to perceive the truth that religion means everything that makes life worth living and death worth dying, then no temple that houses it and fosters it and sets its spell at work in human hearts can seem too costly.

Central Park is worth hundreds of millions of dollars, but nobody thinks it represents too big an investment, for it is not merely a beautiful oasis for those who need it least, but a fresh-air refuge and playground of health and hope for children of poverty, who, out beyond its fields and groves, are having a life struggle under conditions of peculiar hardship and peril. The Cathedral's walls of massive masonry that seem as fit as their bedrock for the siege of time; the dome on high and the grandeur that it crowns; the windows of "twisted tracery and starry light," and all love's offerings to make it what it is or is to be, cannot be considered too costly when measured by the value of their uses. For this is God's House in which priceless benefits are ministered to the soul; and the great space which it encloses seems even by its silence vocal with a message, as clear to thought as organ peals to the sense of sound, to remind His children that they also are temples, and that theirs is the call to leave their "low-vaulted past" and build for themselves "more stately mansions" to shrine the Holy Spirit.

The spacious Nave will mean more fitting accommodations for the growing throngs of worshippers. Continuing the structural work to completeness will mean that one more of the world's wonders of Christian art will then be ready with the full equipment of its majestic plan for the work of righteousness and peace.

PROPOSED NAVE

The Coming Nave

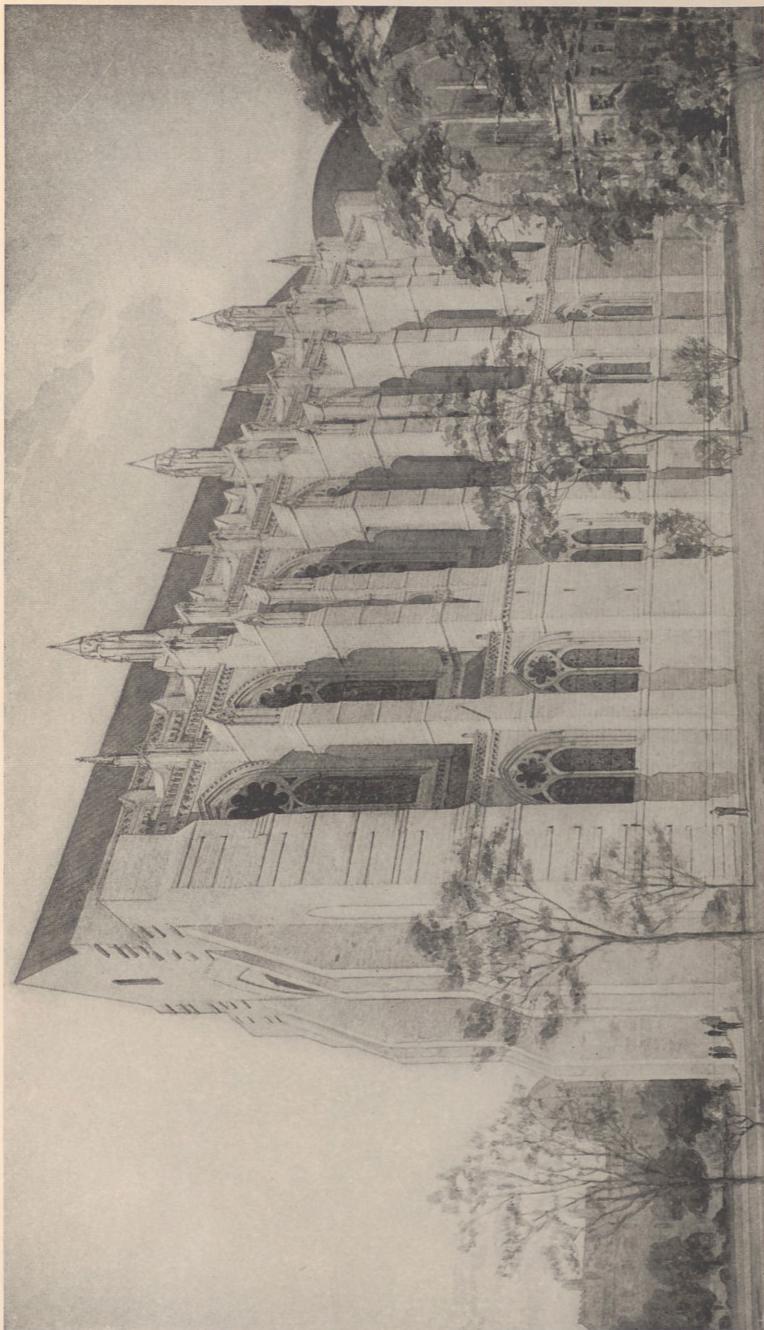

BY MESSRS. CRAM AND FERGUSON, ARCHITECTS.

Extensive study of the problem of the Nave has been carried on by the Architects for considerably more than a year. The problem was, of course, one of the utmost difficulty, since it involved the adoption of a more specifically Gothic type of design for the remainder of the Cathedral, and necessitated the most careful study for the purpose of leaving the existing work practically in its present condition, yet continuing the construction without any sudden or offensive change. Such variations in style as between one portion of a great cathedral and another are constantly found in all portions of Europe, and are due to the natural changes in ideals and in architectural styles through the progress of time. They do not result in any effect of violence or of discrepancy, but generally add to the vitality and the interest of the building. It has appeared to the Architects that the same satisfactory results are quite possible of attainment in the case of the Cathedral, but in order to obtain the unity that is so necessary they have not hesitated to diverge in many material ways from the historical methods of Gothic planning and design. In their reports to the Trustees they have held that it would be impossible to build on to the Cathedral, as it now stands, a nave and transepts conceived exactly on the traditional lines of the French or English cathedrals, with comparatively narrow bays extending without variation from the crossing to the terminations either at the west of the nave or the north and south of the transept. Instead they have taken the system of great squares pre-determined by the existing building and have used these for the development of a somewhat new type of organism, adopting the sexpartite form of vault, which is a vault devised on a series of square areas, and giving it that structural support as well as the outward expression which was generally lacking at the time during the Middle Ages when sexpartite vaulting was in use. The Nave, therefore, in accordance with their plans, will be, not a long series of oblong compartments with unvarying columns, but rather a sequence of four great squares supported on powerful piers, and with the standard order of arcade, triforium and clerestory pushed laterally to the extreme limits of the building, with very lofty intermediate shafts supporting the secondary members of the sexpartite vault. This plan can only result in an extreme openness of effect and in a very brilliant composition of light and shade.

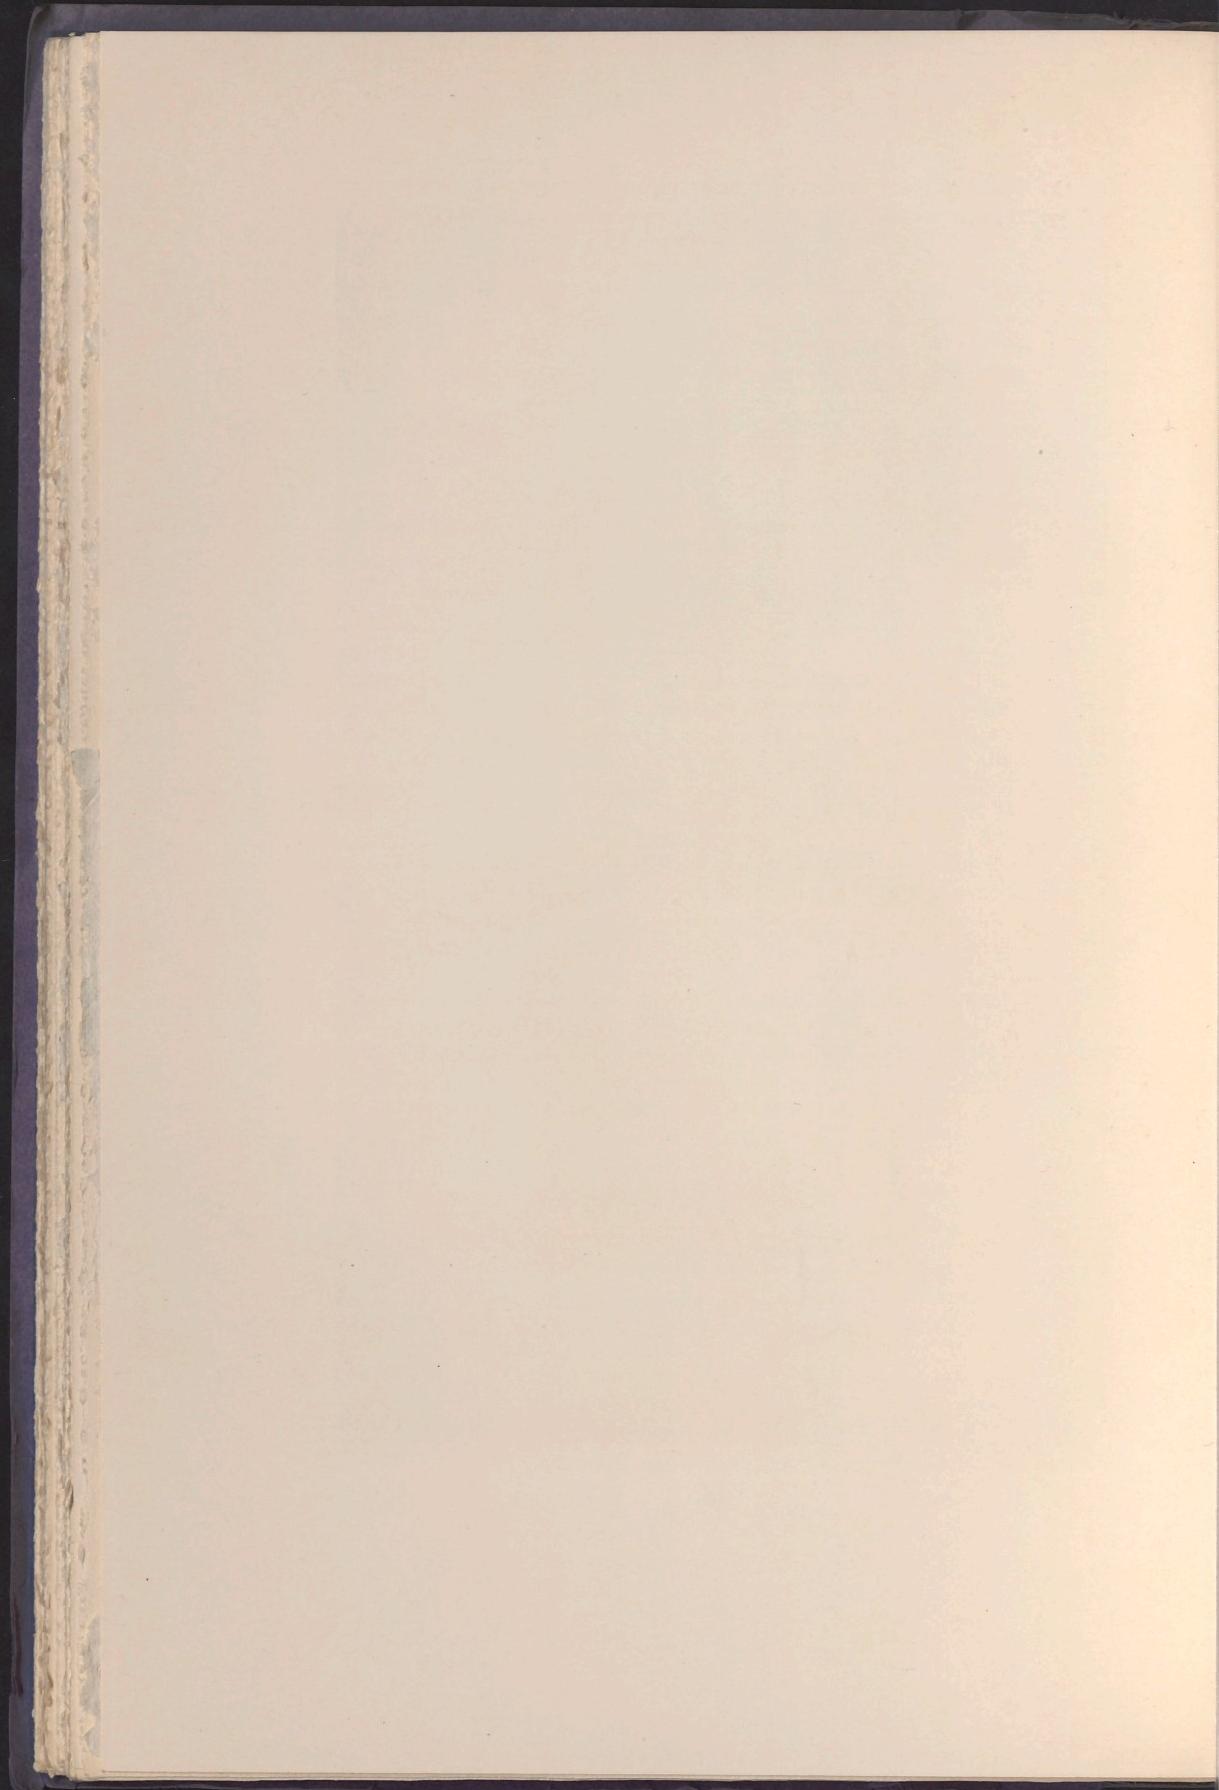

The problem of the treatment of the crossing is still undetermined. Mr. Cram, while Consulting Architect, submitted an alternative scheme for a low crossing tower with two very lofty transeptal towers. This is a scheme which finds many precedents in the earliest work of the Middle Ages, particularly in the Rhineland. It possesses certain marked advantages over the more standard type of the single central tower. This latter form, which was carried to such magnificent heights in England, seems to presuppose, however, a crossing area no greater than the width of the nave and transept. In the case of this Cathedral, where the area is four times this, some doubts have been expressed as to whether a central tower would not appear to crush the remainder of the building. It is possible to argue on both sides of the question, and the Architects being unwilling to make a definite recommendation at this time, the Nave has been designed so that it will be possible in the future to carry out the crossing treatment either with the great central tower originally determined upon or with the transeptal towers recommended by the Consulting Architect, or after some other yet undetermined fashion. It is believed that as the work goes on, little by little, growing after a natural fashion, each new addition will serve to illuminate the great problem of the crossing treatment, and that in the end the solution will appear as an inevitable thing rather than being determined upon a priori grounds.

The west front is not included in the first scheme of nave construction. It has, however, been designed tentatively after several different schemes of composition, and the Architects feel that this also must wait the building of the Nave before it can be fixed absolutely in its final form.

In studying the development of the Nave, Messrs. Cram and Ferguson have not only made innumerable plans, sketches and other drawings, but they have had constructed a model at a scale of four feet to the inch which serves to show more perfectly than any other model ever before built the exact appearance and details of the proposed structure. This model has been used to test every drawing, and on this basis the working plans have been brought to completion and, together with the specifications, delivered to the Trustees preparatory to obtaining estimates and beginning the excavations for the foundations.
